Hoover

Pittsburgh's Opinion of Acceptance Speech. Women Are Delighted. Leaders See Victory.

HERBERT HOOVER'S ringing challenge to his opponents in his formal acceptance of the Republican nomination to the Presidency was received with acclaim by the rank and file of Republican voters in Pittsburgh, and the majority of the party's leaders who are in the city declared his speech presaged a Republican victory in November. Women voters particularly were enthusiastic over what they termed his courageous stand for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment. Progressives say that in Hoover they have found a new champion.

CHARLES H. KLINE, Mayor of Pittsburgh—"Mr. Hoover has given us a thoughtful message full of practical common sense, the product of an able mind. While it is Republican in theme, every thought and every discussion therein is based upon American ideals and in harmony with American conceptions of human relations and American theories of popular government. It shows integrity, intelligence, courage and frankness—four essentials in any man appealing for public support. It is worthy of serious consideration on the part of all voters in making their selection for the high office of President of the United States."

E. V. BABCOCK, County Commissioner—"Herbert Hoover's speech of acceptance was a gem to listen to, and, take my word for it, students of American history will read it 100 years from now. It shows that the Republican party has a candidate who is safe and sound. He is a sure winner."

MRS. A. G. H. FRAZIER—"Mr. Hoover's speech has won him many votes that otherwise would not have been counted in the Republican column. I have talked with hundreds of women voters in all parts of the county and am gratified that they almost unanimously are staunch Hoover supporters. His speech has aroused women who before this campaign took little or no interest in politics. Women like his attitude toward the Eighteenth Amendment, their pet cause?

JOHN H. HENDERSON, City Controller — Hoover's speech of acceptance is an exemplary work. In its preparation he showed his usual thoroughness. It is a strong document throughout."

R. G. WOODSIDE, County Controller—"I heard the speech and have read it but do not care to make any comment."

C. M. BARR, former State Senator—"In his speech of acceptance Herbert Hoover reveals himself as a champion of the progressive and independent element in the Republican party, and, probably to their surprise, the progressives of all poltical faiths, have found a new leader. The human appeal in his speech and his courage and steadfast support of American home life are predominant. Old-line Republican leaders who are luke-warm for his candidacy will be swept aside and he will win with the backing of the intelligent, home-loving and law-abiding people of the United States."

MRS. W. T. TODD—"Mr. Hoover did just what I expected him to do. His speech is a splendid appeal and it finds an answer in the heart of every patriotic women in America. I am more than ever an ardent Hoover supporter."

W. HEBER DITHRICH—"To my mind one of the most pleasing features of his address is his praise of the Coolidge administration. This shows that he promises to do his part in carrying out the Coolidge policies. I like the courage he shows in standing up for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment."

JOHN FRANCIES, County Treasurer—"It is truly a great speech and reveals the human side of the Republican standard bearer—and it means his election."

W. D. MANSFIELD, State Senator—"Hoover's acceptance address is one of the greatest campaign speeches I ever read. He has opened up a new vision for the American voters to consider. He throws the old claptrap to the discard and deals with live issues."

JOSEPH C. MARCUS, member of Legislature—"Hoover's speech is a remarkable document and in it he evades no issue. He deals in a straightforward manner with every public question."

A. L. HUMPHREY, president, Westinghouse Air Brake Company—"Hoover's speech is characteristic of the man. It has a ring to it that will appeal to the American people. It was statesman-like, patriotic, timely and most sympathetic, and, in my opinion, will positively assure his election if there was ever any doubt of his success."

HOWARD HEINZ, president of H. J. Heinz Company—"Mr. Hoover had previously demonstrated his great ability as an organizer and as an able executive. Now in his speech of acceptance, he reveals his broad vision on our national and international problems. We now see the real character of the man—honest, straightforward, understanding, sympathetic, forceful, full of faith in his fellowman, idealistic and yet practical, tolerant and generous in his judgments; a self-made American, whose private life and character have always been above reproach; a man to be respected by everybody; a man worthy of any trust."

ANNA SMOKOVICH

Because her father patronized the place and went home intoxicated, she said, Anna Smokovich, 17, 262 Maryland avenue, Millvale, bought a pint of liquor from Mrs. Magdalene Bucherene, 40, 4032 Willow street, turned it over to police as evidence for a raid, then testified today in Morals Court. Magistrate Brandon complimented the girl, held the woman for court in $1,000 bail and ordered her five children to be taken into custody by Juvenile Court officials in following the policy he decided upon Saturday in relation to children whose parents are involved in bootleg cases.

Waves "Old Glory," Stops Train Headed for Crash

CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE, N. J., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Waving an American flag over his head while his son signalled with a burlap bag, John Anklet, a farmer of Swain, near here, today flagged a passenger train in time to save it from possible derailment.

The train, a Monday morning special over the Pennsylvania Railroad, carried about 300 passengers from Wildwood to Philadelhphia.

The heavy rain of yesterday undermined some of the railroad ties, causing a rail on the northbound track to buckle and snap. It left a gap of several inches. The train after being stopped proceeded slowly and passed over the break without mishap.

In appreciation of Anklet's timely warning, $105 was collected among the passengers.

REPORT GENE HUNTING A JOB IN NEW YORK

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Gene Tunney, trying desperately to achieve the status of a "private citizen" since the announcement of his engagement to Polly Lauder, $50,000,000 heiress, was back in New York today from his fiancee's island home. The ex-heavyweight champion refused to be seen.

With his renunciation of the prize ring crown, "Gentleman Gene" was striving to snap off the bright light of publicity that brought him from the ranks to the top of his chosen profession, and command in full the title the fight fans had bestowed upon him.

And so, like thousands of other men in New York, Mr. James J. Tunney "went downtown." He arrived early this morning from Bar Harbor. He announced bruskly to his associates that he "was going downtown," that he "wouldn't be back until late," and disappeared.

There were rumors that Tunney today was "looking for a job," and that this was the explanation of the trip downtown. No one connected with the former Tunney entourage could or would say.

No arrangements for a statement had been made today and Tunney seemingly wished to stick to his avowal on St. John's Island, that he is through with statements to the press.

"He was very much put out by the actions of reporters and cameramen in Maine," it was said for Gene at the Biltmore.

Pirates Set to Slug

Anxious to free themselves from the protracted batting slump which has cost them two pretty ball games, the Pirates today were ready for the third invasion of the Eastern teams.

The Dodgers will help to furnish the excitement in the Oakland Orchard this afternoon and during the three succeeding days.

This week will bring the Pirates and their foemen together no less than eight times in the six days, provided all games are staged.

Doubleheaders with the Phillies are on the books for Friday and Saturday.

The Pirates have scored only one run in 25 innings as they lost the two great slab duels featuring Fushell and Mitchell and Grimes and Lucas.

Remy Kremer will face the Robins this afternoon.

KNIFE TO PART SIAMESE TWINS SO ONE MAY WED

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Ready, if need be, to barter their lives for love, Mary and Margaret Gibb, 17, Holyoke, Mass., Siamese twins, were to be cut apart today or tomorrow at Park West Hospital.

Decision to operate to sever the twins, joined at the base of the spine, was announced by Dr. Francis P. Weston following a conference with several other distinguished surgeons.

Dr. Weston, in deciding to make the operation, is setting the heavy stake of his professional reputation in the scales, for other surgeons, pointing to the fact that no such operation has ever been completely successful, say it cannot be done.

One twin, perhaps both, may die, or one or both may be crippled for life as a result of the operation, it is said by skeptics.

Dr. Weston himself only gives them a fifty-fifty chance.

But the twins, it is said, are determined to go through with the operation, for Margaret is in love and wishes to be separated from her sister so that she may be married. Mary is willing to take the risk.

No comment could be obtained today from the hospital on the scheduled operation. "The matter is entirely in Dr. Weston's hands," it was said.

CHECK 'ON DOCTORS' WHISKY ORDERED

Is Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington fully convinced that all physicians' whisky prescriptions in the Pittsburgh district are going only to the very sick for medicine?

Does Administrator Pennington believe that there are no leaks from drug stores?

Anyhow——!

It was announced today that, effective September 1, druggists and medicos must make duplicates of all whisky prescription transactions and that the duplicates are to be forwarded to the prohibition department.

New prescription books, fitted for duplicates, are being distributed to the physicians, who will be allowed, as heretofore, to issue 100 prescriptions each 90 days.

Detective Shelved As Drunk

City Detective William Warnock was arrested and suspended today after Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh had learned that he had slugged his mother and a 75-year-old widow.

Walsh said that Warnock, on a drunken rampage in South Hills Saturday night, had slugged Mrs. Anna Love, 75, of 837 Coast avenue, as she stood outside her home, and had then gone to his mother's home where he handed out similar punishment.

When Lieut. Edward Arthur arrived at Warnock's home, 1624 Alverado avenue, Beechview, to arrest him, Warnock asked to be excused for a minute to dress, Arthur reported, and then disappeared through a rear window. He was arrested today at his home.

Gale Whips Shore

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—A Pittsburgh airplane was forced down, 130 persons were rescued along the coast, the meadows between this city and Pleasantville were inundated, cellars in the Inlet section of the city flooded, service on the suburban trolley system suspended and trees and fences blown down when a 55-mile an hour gale lashed the Jersey coast last night. It was accompanied by a downpour of rain.

It was an old-fashioned nor'easter and fishermen said one of the most severe in years. Among those in jeopardy on pleasure craft were a party headed by Congressman Isaac Bacharach. Their boat, the Betty Bee, became disabled in Great Bay and Mr. Bacharach and his party were compelled to don life belts and use ropes to reach safe waters. They were then forced to wade for nearly a mile. Those in the party included Charles Grakelow, of Philadelphia, former grand exalted ruler of the Elks. Altogether 30 were saved from pleasure craft alone.

Flying from Pittsburgh, William Gardner, Pittsburgh, was forced to

HOOVER TAKES LEAD IN NATION'S STRAW VOTE

Returns From Virtually Half of States Give G. O. P. Nominee 52,081, Smith 51,291.

By JOHN W. DIENHART.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Herbert Hoover is ahead of Alfred E. Smith in their race for election as the next President of the United States.

Straw vote returns from virtually half of the states in the union, taken in the Hearst newspapers' nationwide poll, gave the Republican nominee 52,081 and the Democratic nominee 51,291.

Hoover also has the lead in Chicago and Illinois. Forty-five of the 101 counties in the state gave him a total of 1,328 to 687 for Smith. Sixteen of the 50 wards in the city showed this division of sentiment: Hoover, 5,039; Smith, 4,814.

Comparison of the returns with those taken in a similar poll a month ago shows Smith's strength is concentrated in the larger cities.

While the farmers may be disappointed over their failure to win

Republican Candidate Leads in Sunday's Returns from Sun-Telegraph Postal Card Poll.

It may have been the speech of acceptance, or it may have been the particular district from which the votes were received, but Hoover received 40 ballots yesterday in The Sun-Telegraph straw vote against Smith's 30.

This brings the total vote between the two presidential candidates up to 702 for Hoover and 364 for Smith.

The masculine and feminine voters were evenly balanced, 19 men and 21 women voting for Hoover, while 15 men and 15 women returned votes for Smith.

In the 1924 presidential election, the ballots showed, 52 of these persons voted for Coolidgge, 8 of them for LaFollette and 4 for Davis. Six of the straw voters were not of voting age four years ago. Of those who voted for Coolidge, 25 of them were women and 27 men. The LaFollette vote was evenly divided between men and women, although three of the Davis voters were women.

Double postal cards are being sent out to registered voters throughout the state at the rate of several thousand a day, and the replies are coming in satisfactorily. Daily reports of the new figures will be published in The Sun-Telegraph. Not only is the entire state being canvassed, but, through the Hearst syndicate of newspapers, every district of the country is being similarly combed for a definite expression of the public preference in the coming presidential election.

DU PONT PLANS TO SPREAD NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Plans for the increased use of daily newspapers for advertising were announced by Matt Denning, assistant advertising director of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., at a meeting of executives of the paint department being held today at the William Penn Hotel.

Two years ago no use of newspapers was made, but recently the amount of newspaper space has been steadily increased.

"An increase of 172 per cent has been shown in the volume of paint sales since 1922. This year is far ahead of last year and the outlook for the rest of this year and the early part of 1929 is very bright," said Mr. Denning.

The meeting, which will continue over Tuesday and Wednesday, is being attended by 20 executives from Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. R. A. Wilson, assistant director of sales, and A. M. Sullivan, sales manager, were at the meeting.

Plans for the coming year are to be discussed. The executives will also be told of a new product to be placed on the market soon.

NEW YORK'S INSURANCE THREE BILLION PER YEAR

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Life insurance companies issued 2,512,457 policies in New York state in 1927, for amounts totaling $3,089,479,968, according to a statement issued by James A. Beha, superintendent of insurance for the state.

LAW TAKES TOTS FROM RAIDED MOTHER

Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court today carried out his threat to rescue minors from the families of liquor law violators when he ordered five children of Mrs. Magdalene Bucherene, 40 of 4032 Willow street, to be taken into custody by the Juvenile Court. Mrs. Bucherene, charged with violating the Snyder act, was held in $1,000 bail for court.

The woman's arrest was brought about by the volunteer detective work of Miss Anna Smokovich, 17, of 262 Maryland avenue, Millvale. In Morals Court the girl testified that her father, Michael, had been patronizing the place kept by Mrs. Bucherene and had come away intoxicated. The girl said she decided to obtain her own evidence, and going to Mrs. Bucherene's house, she bought liquor and then turned it over to the police. A raid and the arrest of the woman resulted.

"If all our prohibition agents, police, constables and others entrusted with dry law enforcement were as efficient as you, we might have less complaint about the failure of the prohibition amendment," observed Magistrate Brandon in complimenting Miss Smokovich on her good detective work.

"What interests me most about this case is in saving little children from the vicious environment of rum selling," continued Brandon. "Officers of the Juvenile Court will take charge of these children and in every such case that comes before me I will take similar action. We cannot afford to raise up a generation of men and women whose childhood is to be tainted by the association of bootleggers and all their ilk."

Star Nags Saved in Fire Plot

International News Service.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Barking of dogs today was believed to have saved Reigh Count, Kentucky derby winner, and Anita Peabody, the futurity winner, from being burned to death in an incendiary plot.

Cotton soaked with kerosene was found in various parts of the stables housing the racing strings of Mrs. John D. Hertz and John E. Madden after watchmen had been attracted by the barking of a dog. Chuck Walker, Negro trainer employed by Madden, reported that he saw two men running from the stables.

Nettie Stone, a filly which recently cost Mrs. Hertz $25,000, was in the stables with Reigh Count and Anita Peabody.

SEEK KEY TO TEACHER'S MURDER IN BOOK

LIBRARY MYSTERY DEFIES SOLUTION

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—In Eugene O'Neill's "Lazarus Laughed" the Evanston police today sought to read the answer to the riddle: Who killed Jennie Meta Constance?

"Lazarus Laughed" was the volume the Bradley Polytechnic Institute teacher requested from the Northwestern University librarian last Tuesday night just before leaving the building and walking to her death. Police have wondered why she should ask for this particular book in view of the fact that a copy of the same volume was in her handbag at the time.

A theory today was that something happened while Miss Constance was in the library that caused her to delay leaving the building, and that she asked for the first volume that came to her mind, thus having an excuse for remaining.

SIFT FEAR THEORY

This theory received some substantiation from the report of a policeman who returned last night from Peoria, where Bradley Institute is located. The report said that Miss Constance recently had had a part in bringing about the discharge from the faculty of six teachers. This situation opened to investigators the possibility that vengeance may have motivated the person who struck down the 42-year-oud teacher a few moments after she walked from the univirsity library.

There was the statement of one witness who said he had observed a man loitering about the library entrance before Miss Constance's departure. It was possible, police suggested, that the teacher may have seen this man, recognized him, and delayed her departure, possibly through fear.

Evidence tending to link John Burke, odd-jobs man, with the slaying was fast being dissipated, although Burke was being held for further questioning. He has persistently maintained that he was in Rome asleep at the hour Miss Constance was killed.

Another arrest was made last night, Leonard Patrick, 53, being picked up for investigation. Police said Patrick served a prison sentence following conviction in 1892 for killing Anna Gonnes, of Beach Creek, Ky., and that he was convicted in 1909 for slaying William Allen, of Gilmore, Ind., following an argument over a woman. In both cases Patrick won parole after five years' incarceration.

VICTIM

Because he tried to settle a neighborhood quarrel started over a children's play difference, Motorcycle Patrolman Frank Hutchinson, 1005 Norwich avenue, Brookline, is in serious condition today with what is believed a compound skull fracture.

PLAY

Mrs. Samuel Butterworth, mother of Samuel, Jr., 6, was quarreling, police say, with Mrs. Florence Nally, 1062 Norwich street, mother of Patricia, 3, when the patrolman, said to be on leave of absence, attempted to become peacemaker.

HELPS

Hilda Butterworth was also in the discussion at the time, police report. The quarrel among the adults was the outgrowth of a quarrel among children playing on a gravel heap in Norwich street. One was slightly hurt and caused the row.

FATHER

Samuel Butterworth, father, was also on the scene. The patrolman, wearing a dressing robe and slippers, it is reported, threatened to arrest Mrs. Butterworth when his peaceful intentions proved of no avail.

ARRESTED

Charles Butterworth, 1008 Norwich avenue, is held by police as the one who struck Hutchinson with this hammer, said to weigh three pounds. He says Hutchinson approached his mother and he delivered the blow to protect her.

Plane Shot Off Ship Flies On

S. S. ILE DE FRANCE, At Sea, Aug. 13.—(By Radio to the Associated Press.)—An amphibian plane, carrying mail, was catapulted from the deck of this liner at 1 o'clock, New York time, today.

The plane intended to approach the Long Island coast and reach the quarantine station in New York at six o'clock this evening.

FARMERS CALL ON SMITH

By RAYMOND I. BORST,
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 13.—With his acceptance speech virtually completed, Gov. Al Smith today was to confer at the capitol with a dozen farm leaders from the middle western states.

The present week promises to be one of the busiest the Governor has had since he was nominated for the presidency. Wednesday he will have a conference with Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, N. C., who served as Secretary of the Navy under the late President Wilson; Thursday Senator Walter F. George, of Georgia, will be here to tell Smith about the political situation in the South, and Friday Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, will discuss conditions in his part of the country with the Governor.

The Governor is expected to use much of the information he obtains from these three Democratic leaders in mapping out his coming campaign. It is known that Smith has a high regard for the political sagacity of Senator Walsh and that he will be guided to a large extent in the campaign by any advice which the Montana Senator may offer.

MAY SPEAK IN SOUTH

In inviting George and Daniels to confer with him the Governor is understood to have told his advisers that he feels they are especially qualified to picture to him the political situation below the Mason-Dixon line.

Whether Smith will make one or two campaign speeches in the South will depend largely upon the information given him by the two Southern leaders. Several national Democratic leaders are said to have recently written Smith, suggesting that he include some of the Southern states in his campaign itinerary.

Leading the farm chiefs to the conference today will be George N. Peek, of Moline, Ill., who as chairman of the Committee of Twenty-two of the North Central Agricultural States Conference, claims to be the spokesman for a million farmers of the Middle West. Peek, normally a Republican, announced recently that he would support Gov. Smith. He made this declaration after Smith had repudiated the equalization fee as it was written into the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill, but had declared in favor of the principle of controlling surplus farm commodities and assessing the cost of the group benefited.

The conference between Smith and the farm leaders was arranged by Peek and is looked upon as his first move to deliver the farm vote of the Middle West to the Democratic ticket.

Farm leaders who are expected to come to Albany with Peek include Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association. He was a delegate to the Republican convention and presented the minority report on the agricultural plank in the G. O. P. platform.

WHALE CAST ASHORE

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 13—A storm sweeping out of the northeast upon the Jersey coast raged all yesterday, accompanied by a 55-mile-an-hour gale and a driving rain. The lives of fishermen and yachtsmen were jeopardized by the high waves which disabled boats, washed away tons of sand from the beaches and carried off a part of the boardwalk at Beach Haven.

Although boardwalks all along the shore were subjected to terrific pounding by the waves, the only major damage reported was at Beach Haven, where a section of the walk was washed away.

At Mantolking a large crowd collected around a 35-foot whale cast ashore during the storm.

Coast guardsmen said the storm probably was the most violent on the Jersey shore in the last 10 summers.

1 MISSING, 100 SAVED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—One man is missing and nearly 100 other persons were rescued during the northeast storm which abatede arly today after lashing the coast from Virginia Capes to Sandy Hook.

The missing man is Otto Godfrey, a meenber of the crew of the tug Radiant, who was swept away when the tug sank in Delaware Bay near Odessa, Del., yesterday. He wore a life belt and it is hoped he has been picked up. His brother Frank, chief engineer of the tug, was believed to have been drowned, but today he turned up in Odessa. Eight members of the tug crew and a passenger were rescued after battling with the waves for some time.

HOOVER LEADING SMITH IN POSTAL CARD POLL

legislative aid from the present Republican administration, they are not bolting their favorite party, the figures disclose.

Illinois is the most thoroughly organized farm state in the country.

IN LA FOLETTE'S FIELD

Wisconsin, which divides dairying with farming, is the home of the LaFollette organization. "Young Bob" LaFollette, United States senator, lambasted the Republican platform in the national convention at Kansas City. This and the fact that the majority of the "straws" were taken in Milwaukee may account for the trend shown by these figures: Hoover, 474; Smith, 1,185.

Of especial interest are the early returns from the bitterly-contested border states. Hoover has the lead in Kentucky and Missouri, while Smith gets the first bow from Tennessee, the home of anti-Darwinism.

DEMOCRATIC LOSES

Texas, always Democratic, has been in an upheaval since the Houston convention, as reflected by the figures: Hoover, 309; Smith, 310.

Maryland, also considered safely Democratic, is going Republican, it is indicated. While Smith has 2,757 to Hoover's 2,595, comparison of the returns with the first poll shows the Republican growing stronger daily. He is ahead in the 23 rural counties, but running second in Baltimore.

The agricultural and dairy districts of New York are opposed to their own Governor. He, however, is tremendously popular in New York City. Albany, the state capital, is for Hoover. The vote: Hoover, 1,129; Smith, 773.

Syracuse, which Smith calls his lucky city, also appears to be against him for president. He got only 2,731 to 4,134 for Hoover. Rochester and Buffalo gave him a lead, respectively, of 1,470 and 3,835, to 1,224 and 2,339, respectively, for Hoover.

FAR WEST FOR HOOVER

The West, as examplified by California and Washington, favors Hoover.

As in nearly all of the returns, the women of Illinois and Chicago are for Hoover.

Of the 45 counties canvassed, Smith was ahead in four only: Clark, Monroe, Tazell and Wabash. The vote was tied in Grundy and Peoria counties and close in Christian, Gallatin, Jo Daviess, Perry, Randolph and Union.

The Second Ward, overwhelmingly Republican, is consistent for Hoover. So appear to be the Fourth, Tenth, Forty-second and Forty-eighth Wards. The Forty-third, containing a large German population, broke away from the ranks and indicated a preference for Smith. The Thirty-sixth and Forty-sixth Wards have voted Republican more times than Democratic. They are leaning to Smith this year.

Blinded Veteran Second Named 80th's Chief

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Howard J. Wells, of Petersburg, Va., was elected Saturday as national commander of the Eightieth Division Veterans' Association at the annual reunion here. He lost his sight from war wounds.

Wells was a bugler with the Three Hundred and Eighteenth Infantry and was blinded at Arras, France, while his battalion was serving with the Coldstream Guards of the British army.

He is the second blind veteran to command the veterans' association. In 1924 Lieut. Frank Schoble, of Philadelphia, was elected. Schoble was wounded near Nantillois.

TUNNEY FLEES TO NEW YORK

day was speeding to New York on the Bar Harbor express.

Wearing a disguise which included spectacles, the retired heavyweight champion boarded the train at New Castle a few minutes before the baffled reporters arrived at the station, following a wild automobile ride of 14 miles.

At the station it was learned that Tunney had attempted to conceal his identity by wearing glasses and a soft felt hat, with the collar of his grey coat pulled over his face.

After reaching New York today Tunney is expected to arrange his business affairs preparatory to sailing for Europe, where he will make a walking tour with Thornton Wilder, the novelist, as his companion. He leaves Thursday on the Mauretania.

"SHAKEDOWN" FAILS, FINED

Accused of impersonating an officer when he is alleged to have displayed a police badge to Walter Loritz of Madison avenue and South Canal street, early yesterday, William Mellon, 29, of 617 Pressley street, was fined $25 by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney. Loritz and three companions of Mellon, who also were arrested, were discharged.

Mellon told police he and his companions had purchased liquor in Loritz's place, but no evidence was introduced at the hearing to substantiate this charge, according to Magistrate Sweeney, who explained that he fined Mellon rather than hold him for Federal authorities, because it was testified that Mellon had impersonated a city policeman.

Mellon had attempted to "shakedown" the proprietor of the place, Sweeney said.

HOME AND $600 FOR LAST PAYMENT BURN

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 13.—When the two-story frame home of William Jenkins in Derry township was burned there was consumed with it not only the furnishings, but $600 cash which Jenkins had saved to make the last payment on the home.

One Slain In Strip Fight

Shot during an argument in front of a restaurant in Penn avenue, near Twenty-eighth street, early today, Silas Morrow, 36, Negro, of 3011 Spring way, died a short time later in West Penn Hospital before he could tell police the name of the Negro slayer or give any reason for the argument. The slayer escaped.

Penn avenue police, answering a riot call sounded from the restaurant, found the fatally wounded man, but nobody could explain the reason for the shooting. The homicide squad of city detectives today began a hunt for the slayer and arrested Rubin Alston, 32, Negro, of 2843 Penn avenue, as a suspect.

McAllister and his chauffeur, William McMahon, were traced to Perry highway yesterday, but all trace of them and the car was lost after leaving West View. A canvass of the hospitals failed to reveal trace of either McAllister or his chauffeur, police reported.

PLANE SMASHES INTO CROWD, KILLS THREE

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—(INS.)—Three men and one woman were killed and several others injured today when an exhibition flier named Gesper lost control of his airplane and crashed into a crowd of spectators at the Aachen flying field. Motor trouble is said to have been the cause of the accident. Gesper was only slightly hurt.

SEA FLIGHT TRAGEDY SCENTED

International News Service.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Aug. 13.—Wreckage of a large plane found in the sea early today led to belief in maritime circles here that the final chapter in some ill-fated trans-Atlantic flight had been disclosed.

The damaged body and one wing was sighted by the S. S. Seapool in latitude 51.36 north, longitude 44.41 west. The rudder at the tail of the wrecked plane protruded five feet from the water.

The point where the wreckage was seen is about 400 miles northeast of Cape Cod.

The captain of the Seapool reported here that in the darkness he could not distinguish the color of the plane and that it was impossible to see a number or other identifying marks on the fuselage.

The parts of the plane body appeared to be damaged by the action of the water and gave other evidence of having been long in the sea, the Seapool captain reported.

Fire Truck Skids, Mows Down 25 In Crowd

FLORAL PARK, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Skidding broadside into a crowd at a fire brigade tourney here, a heavy fire truck, speeding 50 miles an hour, mowed down more than 25 persons, many of them women and children, before it was stopped.

The truck, racing down an avenue at top speed, was suddenly braked in an effort to avoid hitting a motorcycle patrolman who was riding in front of it. As the four wheel brakes grabbed, the rear end of the heavy truck swung around and, mounting the curbing, cut a swath in the crowd.

MINERS BID OWNERS TO PEACE MEET

INVITE 30 TO JOINT PAYRATE PARLEY

The coal strike was regarded as another step nearer solution today, when the United Mine Workers invited the operators of this district to participate in a joint conference on a wage scale.

In accordance with the decision reached by the Union at its Indianapolis convention, July 18, P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, sent this letter to some 30 operators in this territory:

THE INVITATION

"As president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, Western Pennsylvania, I am authorized by the district policy committee to issue to you or your representatives an invitation to participate in a joint conference for the purpose of effectuating a wage agreement governing wages and conditions of employment for your employes in this district.

"This invitation is being extended to you in conformity with the action of the International Policy Committee of the United Mine Workers of America, which body adopted the following resolution at Indianapolis, Ind., Wednesday, July 18:

" 'Resolved, First, That the officers of the respective districts comprising the central competitive field and the outlying bituminous districts be authorized to enter into wage negotiations with their respective operators upon a basis mutually satisfactory.

" 'Second, That district representatives and the officers of the internatoinal union shall cooperate in the execution of this policy.

'Third, That all district organizations be authorized to permit any coal company or any mine to employ all the emn it may require for maintenance, repairs, development, construction or production of coal, providing, however, that such company agrees with the district to pay the existing wage schedules and carry out the existing agreement temporarily until a district agreement is negotiated.

" 'Fourth, That any agreement negotiated under this policy shall be submitted for ratification to a district convention or a referendum vote of the respective district.'

"It is hoped that in the interest of industrial tranquility that your company will accept this invitation and join with the representatives of the United Mine Workers of America in an earnest effort to stabilize mining conditions in the Western Pennsylvania coal fields."

Capt. Marino promised the law's co-operation.

HOLD 2 NABBED FOR HOLDUP

Two Negroes, arrested, police asserted, for trying to hold up a store at 756 Millvale avenue, Saturday night, argued in Central Police Court today they weren't trying to rob the place but were really learning to be detectives. However, they were held for court.

Detective Joseph (Bozo) Lavery, who lives nearby, testified he saw the pair level a revolver at Sam Fried, proprietor, so he evened matters by strolling in and aiming a revolver at the visitors. The Negroes said they were Toki Spears, 20, of 2631 Mahon street, and Charles Brackett, 19, of 2940 Crockett street.

SPEED BOAT WRECKED IN TRIAL RUN; 1 HURT

International News Service.

ALGONAC, Mich., Aug. 13.—Miss America VI, Gar Wood's newest and most powerful speed boat, built to defend the Harmsworth trophy, was in ruins in the north channel of the St. Clair River today. The boat split to pieces while traveling at a speed Wood estimated to be the fastest any hydroplane has ever gone.

Wood was at the wheel. He was not injured. His mechanic, Orlin Johnson, was thrown against the exhaust pipes and badly cut.

The engines and a considerable part of the boat sank.

The Miss America VI was launched Saturday and the accident occurred on her second trial run.

The boat was powered with two 12-cylinder V-type Packard engines rated at 800 horsepower each but which together developed around 2,200 horsepower. The cost of the hull was about $10,000 and the engines $10,000 each.

It was the most powerful hydroplane ever built and was constructed with the idea of breaking the present world's speed record of 80.57 miles per hour made by Wood in 1921 with the Miss America II.

The force of being driven through the water caused the hull to splinter. It crumbled to pieces in an instant and cast both men into the water.

AMUNDSEN NOTE HELD HOAX

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 13.—(INS.)—A bottle was washed ashore today at Rottumeroog, Rottum Island, containing a message signed "Roald Amundsen," but it is believed to be a hoax.

The message in the bottle follows:

"Latham, one point seven point, 28 degrees 23 minutes East."

Belief that the message is false was based upon the fact that the writer failed to give both latitude and longitude. It is thought that Amundsen would have specified his position exactly if he had actually written the note.

The explorer was in a French Latham seaplane when he disappeared with five companions in June.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The commander of the Russian ice breaker Krassin, who arrived at Stavanger, Norway, on Saturday, announced his belief that Capt. Roald Amundsen is still alive and his determination to continue the search for him, said an Oslo dispatch to the London Daily Mail today.

The commander was quoted as saying:

"I feel sure that Capt. Amundsen is still alive. I will continue the search for him into October if necessary."

CLEARS STREET FOR RUNAWAY

Noticing an automobile racing down Woodlawn avenue from the William Penn highway, Wilkinsburg, was beyond control of the driver, Motorcycle Patrolman Jack Dyer last night cleared the street of traffic, saving pedestrians and other motorists from injury.

The policeman drove his motorcycle ahead of the racing car, blowing his siren and clearing the street of heavy Sunday night traffic.

Once on level ground the driver was able to stop his machine. His brakes would not hold on the hill, he told police.

CITY SEES NO "SHOOTING STARS" BUT RADIO ACTS UP

The radio which "acted up" over the week-end while the earth was rolling around in the dust of the Comet of 1861 probably had a loose connection, unless one of the meteors left in the wake of Mr. (or Mrs.) Comet happened to tear down antennae, according to Dr. Heber D. Curtis, director of Allegheny Observatory.

The comet dust through which the earth passed some time Saturday night looks like shooting stars to the layman observer, according to Dr. Curtis, who said the earth passes through the wake of this comet every year about August 10.

"We are not due to get close to this comet until 1988," he declared, "and not until that time will people on the earth see anything unusual from this astral body."

It was too cloudy in Pittsburgh Saturday night to see even the shooting stars, Dr. Curtis asserted.

PROHIBITION IS CLEAR-CUT CAMPAIGN ISSUE

HOOVER, SMITH DEFINITELY ALIGNED

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

(Copyright, 1928, by International News Service.)

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Aug. 13.—Herbert Hoover, dry; Alfred E. Smith, wet!

For the first time since its adoption eight years ago, prohibition today became a major issue in a presidential election, with Herbert Hoover, the Republican nominee, definitely committed to the outlawry of intoxicating liquors. The issue will be joined 10 days hence when Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic nominee, declares himself for liberalization of the Volstead act.

EMPHATICALLY "DRY"

Hoover today stood on record as opposed to repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, as pledged to efficient enforcement of the Volstead act, as opposed to nullification of the Volstead act and as pledged to the correction of all abuses of the prohibition statutes.

In drafting this stand on prohibition for his acceptance speech, International News Service learned on the highest authority, Hoover believed he was "burning all his bridges behind him" so far as prohibition is concerned. The Republican nominee believed he had definitely committed himself to the dry side of the prohibition question. That, at least, was his purpose, according to unimpeachable authority.

MORAL EXPERIMENT

The nominee, however, did not and does not desire to battle out the campaign on the prohibition issue. He looks upon prohibition as a "great moral experiment," as he publicly stated, and feels it should be decided on a non-partisan basis and not as a part of any political campaign.

The Republican nominee does not look upon the Volstead act as perfect. He feels there should be an impartial investigation of prohibition, its problems and abuses, methods of enforcement and means of correcting abuses. When the "facts" are learned, he is ready to have a new enforcement act placed on the statute books which will carry out the purpose of the Eighteenth Amendment—namely, the prohibition of the sale, manufacture or transportation of intoxicating liquors.

Hoover's position can be summarized in these words:

> "If the Volstead act is not workable, we should have an investigation to learn how we can make it a success."

Hoover, in his speech Saturday, believed he cleared up all misunderstanding about his position on prohibition. He was said to feel there is no need of further discussion of the question by him. If he does speak on the subject again during the campaign, it will be only because the public has become confused about it and in that event, Hoover will declare himself so dry as to leave no doubt in any man's mind.

"WET" SPOKESMAN SILENCED

There was considerable turmoil here over the week-end about Hoover's prohibition stand, due to the action of one of his advisers in giving out an unauthorized "wet" interpretation of his speech. This self-appointed "spokesman" said Hoover really stood for liberalization of the Volstead act, much like Gov. Smith, and had tried to so assert himself in the speech. When Hoover learned of this interpretation word was passed out from his headquarters that the "spokesman" had been permanently silenced.

Hoover's attitude toward prohibition can be understood if his career is studied. He was raised a Quaker and as a child was taught in that faith's rigid creed that drinking was a physical blight and moral sin. As a youth in mining camps he saw the vicious side of drunkenness and the saloon evil. He lost some of his moral scruples against intoxicating liquors while traveling about the world, but he welcomed the Eighteenth Amendment.

WANTS FURTHER TRIAL

He termed it a "noble" social experiment. Since its adoption he carefully avoided homes where liquour was served at the table in defiance of the law. His closest social friends in Washington are known as "teetotalers." He is a passionated defender of the Constitution, and as such has no respect for men who defy any portion of it.

Thus far, Hoover is unprepared to say whether or not prohibition is a success. He believes it is still an experiment and as such should have a fairer and longer test. At heart he opposes prohibitory legislation of all kinds, due to his Quaker training. He believes in social correction by persuasion and not by compulsion, but wants a better test of the Dry Law, before he commits himself on the question of its success as a "great social and economic experiment."

FLOOD OF CONGRATULATIONS

The nominee received hundreds of congratulatory telegrams over the week end, most of which specifically praised his stand on prohibition.

Senator Charles Curtis, his running mate; Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana; William Wrigley, Jr., D. D. Robertson, president of the Firemen's Brotherhood; Thomas O. Marvin, chairman of the Tariff Commission, and Julius Rosenwald, the Chicago merchant prince, were among those sending congratulations.

Hoover will rest here until Thursday night, when he begins his return trip to Washington. He will spend Friday in Los Angeles, Monday in Topeka, visiting Senator Curtis, three days in Iowa and reach Washington about August 26.

BANDIT RING BROKEN

CONFESSIONS OF 2 BARE CRIME ACTIVITY HERE

A bandit gang that specialized in robberies in which large sums were involved has been broken up, city detectives declare, in the arrest of four men from whom signed confessions are said to have been obtained.

With virtually no clues to light their way, the detectives started their search after Edward LeGoullon, of 7121 Agnew street, a guard of the Ward Baking Company, and Henry Walker, Negro messenger, were slugged and robbed of $17,000 of the company's funds in Thirty-second street near Spring way April 2 last. Confessions admitting participation in the baking holdup as well as the holdup of William Murray, a dispatcher of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, have been obtained, according to the detectives. The railway dispatcher was robbed of $2,401.83.

Those held are Sylvester Mantz, 25, of Forty-third street; John Otis, 23, of Long way; William "Tug" Murphy, 44, of Thirty-eighth street, and George Schreiber, 25, of Arch street.

MEAGER CLUES

Headed by Detective Inspector Frank Boyd, Detectives Edward O'Rourke, James Swearingen and Thomas Flavin began their search following the holdup of the bakery employes. Descriptions were about the onyl tangible clues obtained. For five weeks the detectives continued their investigation in an effort to uncover some material clues.

The holdup of the street car dispatcher occurred July 9, and in that holdup the descriptions of the fugitives tallied with those wanted for the former robbery.

State Policeman J. F. Schmidt assisted the detectives in the investigation of the robbery of the railways dispatcher at Castle Shannon.

Every robbery suspect taken to the detective bureau was questioned in the hope that he might give additional information. A week ago Mantz and Otis were arrested by detectives following investigation of robberies in which about a score of residences had been entered. The suspects were lodged in jail pending further questioning.

Piecing together what they had uncovered by the grilling of Otis and Mantz the detectives decided upon the arrest of a woman, Betty Colwell, 25, of Arch street, and George Schreiber, 25, also of Arch street. Questioned by Detective O'Rourke and his squad the woman is declared to have given information incriminating the suspects.

Mantz was the first to make admissions, the detectives say. In the arrest of "Tug" Murphy the detectives maintain that they have captured a gang leader who not only planned the holdups but also took an active part in performing them.

VOGUE MONTH AT GIMBELS

This Week in Vogue Month Is Devoted to the School Girl and Her Correct Wardrobe

Only one who has seen the wretched unhappiness of the school girl whose wardrobe was wrong can appreciate the delicate Vogue-drawn line between the correct and the incorrect in school clothes. No subject is closer to the heart of Vogue than the wardrobe problems of the young American at school. That no Pittsburgh girl shall arrive at school with "plenty of clothes but nothing to wear" Gimbels devotes this first week of Vogue Month to school girls' wardrobes. The finishing school and college girl, the prep school girl and the young kindergartner . . . with their mothers . . . will delight in this presentation of clothes correct by Vogue standards. The windows, tomorrow's promenade and the children's, girls' and junior misses' departments are the centers of this week's Vogue interest.

You are invited to the Promenade of School Clothes at 3 o'clock tomorrow, and to hear Jane Griffin, Educational Director of Vogue Magazine School Bureau, talk on "Private Schools of France." Upon request we will send you our booklet, "Types of French Schools," written for us by Mme. Alice Pericard, Director of the "Institut d'Etudes Francaises.

POISON PLOT TO END MARRIAGES BARED; 1 KILLED

CRYSTAL GAZER, FIVE OTHERS ARRESTED

International News Service.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 13.—Police today pressed their investigation into the alleged poison murder mill here which, they said, has resulted in the death of one person and the serious illness of several others. Additional arrests are expected momentarily.

S. W. Daniels, alias "Professor" Brandorini, crystal gazer and "fortune teller," was in the city jail charged with dispensing poison to persons desiring to rid themselves of undesired husbands and wives. Five of the alleged "clients" are also held in connection with the alleged operations of the "professor."

L. M. Lockamay, who died on June 5, is alleged to have been poisoned with little "white powders." His wife, who married E. F. Pressley three weeks after Lockamay died, and Pressley were arrested Saturday charged with murder.

Mrs. L. M. Pridgeon and Mrs. Lilly Townley were arrested charged with poisoning their husbands, the "Rev." J. H. Moore, Negro preacher, is in jail charged with poisoning his wife. The trio are alleged to have administered poison furnished by Daniels. The two women were later released on bond.

In a signed statement, Mrs. Pridgeon and Mrs. Townley declared they gave their husbands powders supplied by Daniels after the latter had told them it would "improve the situation at home."

The police unearthed the alleged murder mill following the arrest last week of a young woman charged with shoptlifting. She told the police she needed money to pay Daniels for an operation.

NO CRITICISM OF MALONE IN FRENCH COURT

PARIS, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Dudley Field Malone, American attorney, has made public a denial of reports carried by the Associated Press on July 21 connecting his name with divorce irregularities in the French courts during the recent investigation of the "American Divorce Mill" scandal in Paris.

In its report of the investigation, the Associated Press said that Presiding Judge Wattine mentioned by name Mr. Malone, Charles G. Loeb and Benjamin H. Conner, president of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris. This was an error which the Associated Press is glad to correct.

The names of the three American attorneys were mentioned during questioning of the French defendants in the investigation as among American lawyers from whom they had received the divorce cases under investigation. Judge Wattine said that he was not concerned with American lawyers, but since the cases came from their offices he made a general criticism of "American divorce lawyers" without distinguishing between those whose cases were found regular and those who turned in faulty papers.

The impression carried in the report of July 21 that Mr. Malone's name and those of Mr. Conner and Mr. Loeb had been connected with the divorce irregularities by Judge Wattine was erroneous and is hereby corrected by the Associated Press.

EXPLORER BACK WITH TROPHIES

HONOLULU, Aug. 13. — (AP.)—Howard S. Reed, Los Angeles big game hunter and explorer, arrived here yesterday aboard the Siberia Maru after an exciting two months of adventure in the wilds of Northern Siam and Indo-China. During his hunt 12 Bengal tigers, four gaurs and numerous smaller animals were bagged. The skins and skulls of them are being taken back to the United States.

Reed is also taking back a collection of rare insects which will be divided between the Los Angeles Museum of Science and Art and the San Diego Zological Society. The expedition represented these organizations.

The explorer said the native identified five of the tigers killed by the expedition as man eaters. More than 100 natives in the district were victims of the beasts within the last year he said.

The only tragedy of the expedition was when a tiger attacked a native bearer one day and ate him. Reed stalked the animal and killed it.

Mrs. Reed, an opera singer, accompanied her husband throughout the expedition.

RIVER CAPTAIN, WARREN ELSEY DIES AT 80

Capt. Warren Elsey, 80, well known riverman in this district died Saturday night at his home in Philadelphia according to word received here.

Capt. Elsey, a former transportation master of the Vesta Coal Company of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, went to Philadelphia upon his retirement three years ago. The body will be brought to Pittsburgh and the funeral will be held from the home of his son, Capt. P. C. Elsey, 4051 Brownsville road.

Capt. Warren Elsey was born near Portsmouth, O., in a horse-drawn canal boat. When 16 he started work for Jones & Laughlin and when 19 he received his license as a marine engineer.

The same year he built the first car ferry on the Monongahela river for use on the river near the plant of the corporation here. During the years that followed he built many boats, including the steamer Vulcan, known as the first compound condenser boat on the local river. In 1897 he was appointed river transportation manager for the steel corporation and had charge of their boats.

With his son, Capt. P. C. Elsey, in 1911 he orignated the double header tows. He construted a fleet of more than 170 barges during the next few years and a short time later retired, first instructing his son in the duties of riverman.

He leaves three sons. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, and Harbor No. 25, Master Mates' and Pilots' Association.

Cool Days Start Autumn Plans, Patricia Pitt Says

AFTER two weeks of merciless August heat, one feels tempted to paraphrase Samuel Butler's famous pronouncement, that youth is a much over-rated season of life, to read, "Summer is a much over-praised season of the year." Anyway, it's like the way of flesh to be dissatisfied with a season the novelty of which has worn off.

Right now no period in the year seems more sweet to most of us, I hazard a guess, than fall. The last two delightfully invigorating days that hint of autumn have reminded us what an active life may be.

All we have heard for days and days is news of folks traveling to the north to find a few cool breezes. But with the first crisp day everyone begins to make plans for the fall, and the fall has come to connote weddings.

A new wedding date I've just learned, has been taken in early September. Dorothy Isabel Bailey, daughter of the George Hobart Baileys, of Dunmoyle place, has named Thursday, September 6, for her marriage to Kenneth V. Hughes, son of Mrs. Joseph Hughes, of Anderson, Ind. Their engagement was announced in March, I believe.

Dorothy has decided to have a home wedding. The hour set for the ceremony is 7:30 o'clock, and the clergyman chosen to marry her is the Rev. Dr. Robert Meade, of the Church of the Redeemer.

Katherine Blount, of Brooklyn will be Dorothy's maid of honor, and Mrs. Wendell Walter Lusk, who was Martha Lobingier before June 2, will be matron of honor. Helen Hawman and Josephine Moseley will be bridesmaids.

Mr. Hughes has not yet named his attendants.

AND now, since it is still summer after all, I must talk a bit about Pittsburgh folks at the various summer resorts favored by society.

At Watch Hill H. L. Childs has won renown as a golfer. In a tournament at the Ocean House he won a loving cup, presented by Col. F. W. Tallinghast, of Providence. Thomas M. Jones III, also is playing some good golf, I hear.

On August 31 the first horse show of the Watch Hill Riding and Polo Club will be held. And in the meantime the riding club has many visitors, among them Richard King Mellon and the Alan M. Scaifes.

THE East Hampton Riding Club will hold a horse show on Saturday at the club. Mrs. Ogden M. Edwards, Jr., is one of a long list of patrons.

WHILE most folks are going to the Northeast for the summer, others find the mountains of Virginia attractive. The Richmond F. Balls, of Sewickley, have gone to Hot Springs.

PICTURESQUE old Provincetown is an ideal place for spending the summer, many Pittsburgh folks have found. Mrs. John Henry King Burgwin, of St. James street, likes it so well that she has made it her summer home since May. Her daughter, Mrs. Charles Burbank Crockett, and her grandson, Charles Burbank Crockett, Jr., are with her. Mr. Crockett spends his week-ends with his family. Mrs. Burgwin recently had as her guest her niece, Mildred Carlisle Burgwin, who now lives in New York.

Dr. and Mrs. Percival J. Eaton liked Provincetown so well that they have made it their permanent home. They have with them now their daughter, Mrs. Joseph Groves, of Wilkes-Barre, and her baby. Mr. Groves will join them this month.

Following the example of the Eatons, the Ewing W. Days have bought a house there.

The George Reeds, of Bayard street, were at the Ship's Bell, Provincetown, during July, and are now motoring to Lake Placid. At the Ship's Bell now is Mrs. Gordon Fisher, of Colonial place.

THE marriage of Miss Estelle Randolph Bolling and Dr. William Emerson Austin, of Jersey City, formerly of Aspinwall, will be solemnized Sunday in New York. Miss Bolling is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raldolph Bolling, and Dr. Austin was born in Aspinwall, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Austin.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Florence Hopkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hopkins, of East Orchard avenue, Bellevue, and Donald D. Black, son of Mrs. Jessie Black, of Veteran street, North Side.

THE Christian Ihmsen Shannons, of Boundary street, Sewickley, have joined the group of local people who are out of town. They left yesterday to go to Halifax, where they will join Mrs. Henry R. Rea, of "Farm Hill," Sewickley Heights, on her yacht, Cressida, for a fishing trip. And Mrs. James W. Oliver and her daughter, Martha Jane, of Hill Crest, Sewickley Heights, have gone away, too. With their house guest, Mrs. William Baird, of California, they left by motor for Delaware Water Gap.

DID you know that the young Alexander Verner Wassons have returned from their four months' wedding trip abroad? Mrs. Wasson, you know, was Marion Beeson, daughter of Charles E. Beeson, of Morewood avenue.

THE annual reunion of the McGarry family will be held Saturday, August 25, in Riverview Park.

THE Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Weisheit, of Monessen, formerly of Bellevue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Murva Weisheit, to Clifford William Engle, son of Mrs. W. C. Engle, of Washington, Pa.

ELECTA CHAPTER, No. 51, O. E. S., will hold an outing and basket picnic Saturday, August 25,

STUDENTS VISIT DOUMERGUE

RAMBOUILLET, France, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—The Americans and other college students from all over the world were guests of President Doumergue in the park of the Rambouillet chateau—the French summer white house—yesterday.

They began their sightseeing at Versailles in the morning, being shown over the historic palace where the brilliant court of Louis XIV dazzled the world.

They were told the history of the great park and chateau by the conservateur of the chateau, an honor that falls to few visitors to the palace.

Doumergue received them with his cheery smile and enjoyed immensely the gaiety the young people brought into the Rambouillet chateau grounds where gaiety is not always the rule.

MARTINSBURG PLANS SHERIDAN MEMORIAL

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 13.—Plans are under way to erect a tablet at the Everett house, now a store, to commemorate the fact that it was from Martinsburg, and not Winchester, Va., that Gen. Sheridan made his famous ride to Cedar Creek during the Civil War, swung the tide of battle and defeated Gen. Early's Confederate force. Sheridan, returning from Washington, was retiring in the Everett house when one of his scouts, B. H. Feller, of Vanclevesville, Eighth New York Cavalry scout, rode in with the information that the Federal forces were in grave danger.

Women Thrilled By Hoover, Says W. C. T. U. Aide

EVANSTON, ILL., Aug. 13. (AP.) A statement issued by Mrs. Anna Marden Deyo, corresponding secretary of the Womans Christian Temperance Union, declares that Herbert Hoover's nomination acceptance speech "thrilled millions of women."

"More than any other political leader of the present day Hoover embodies the high spiritual and political ideals for which we have been working for many years," the statement read.

"The W. C. T. U. will agree with Secretary Hoover as to the advantage of an impartial survey of prohibition results," Mrs. Deyo's statement declared, "but whenever the women have advocated it heretofore, they have been blocked by wet politicians."

Tempermental Maria Corda Gets New Chance in Pictures As Milton Sills' Leading Woman

By REGINA CREWE

(Copyright 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 13, 1928.

WHEN Milton Sills begins work on the picture tentatively titled "The Comedy of Life," he will have no less a charmer than Maria Corda as his leading lady. Yep, "Helen of Troy" herself, is to make a fresh start in the film race for fame. Maria made quite a dent in the hearts of American fans. But they say that she wasn't quite so successful in impressing First National officials. It is whispered, quite audibly, that Maria was "temperamental." And how! But now it appears that some of the star's really good friends have de-bunked some of her ideas as how to get ahead in pictures, and she has both feet firmly on the ground.

Many a foreign star comes here laboring under the misadvice that to command the respect of the executives it is necessary to wreck a few sets and do other stunts to register "temperament." Some try it. But only once. If Maria watches her "temperament" and her calories she'll get a big break from the American film fans. She possesses the ability to become a big number. Alexander Korda, the lady's husband, is to direct. Which may prove ideal. And may not.

Cecil De Mille's first for Metro will be a modern story dealing with divorce. The title is kept a deep and devious secret—for no particular reason.

Lewis Stone has signed for five years under the Metro banner. Wait until you see him in "The Patriot" and you'll know why Metro grabbed him. Why Paramount didn't is a mystery. They say that he steals the picture from Jannings. But judge that yourself.

Louis John Bartels has signed up for "The Canary Murder Case," which will have sound and dialog. Ned Sparkes, one of the best character men on the coast, has also been seized for the story.

Tom Mix is out with another blistering indictment of Hollywood's fads and foibles, upon which he blames any domestic difficulties which may arise between himself and "Vicky" Mix, his wife. "Vicky" is in Paris now, but Tom says he's sure she'll come back again, and that there is no danger of divorce. Tom says they were happy until he became rich. Tom is sincere in not caring a hoot for all the accessories wealth has brought him. And apparently also not caring how badly he gets in with Hollywood by talking mean about it.

Jimmy Gleason and Director Al Santell have locked themselves up in Al's Malibou Beach house for two weeks. At the end of that time they will emerge from the cloister with a story for Vilma Banky's next film. It is to be a "Cinderella" yarn, in which the little poor girl gets rich.

Harry Pollard, who directed "Uncle Tom's Cabin," is getting quite a kick from doing a burlesque version of the story as part of "Show Boat." The "troupers" of the famous river boat also present "Tempest and Sunshine" and "Romeo and Juliet." But it's all in fun.

Belle Bennett has been cast for a leading role in a thriller called "The Queen of Burlesque." Which, as you may imagine, gives the versatile Belle an entirely different set-up than that which she has just completed in "Patience."

"The Godless Girl" opens here next Monday, and as the day approaches the latest De Mille epic is more and more the topic of Hollywood conversation. The premier, 'tis said, will have more dignity and less bombastic ballyhoo than those to which the natives are accustomed. However, the picture will be shown in silence. For the time, at least, sound synchronization has been abandoned. Which would seem to bear out the opinions of many intelligent picture people that good pictures don't need "squeakie" accompaniment.

Hobart Bosworth, whose white name may be seen waving in the Beverly breezes as he rides along its bridle-path, has been put in the Garbo picture, "A Woman of Affairs." He will play the role of the father. Clarence Brown's cast for this one has assumed all-star proportions.

CAMERA SHOTS :-: OF ACTOR FOLK :-: NOT ACTING

Tom Mix and John H. Harris, general manager of the Harris Amusement Companies, photographed on movie set in which Mix is working.

Norma Shearer undergoes vocal test and here we see Dean Ray K. Immel, of the University of Southern California, analyzing her speech, recorded by various delicate electrical instruments.

Marceline Day finds a couple of cute piggies while visiting the largest hog ranch in California, at Fontana.

Say Silent Drama Will Be History In Five Years

"Five years from now the silent drama will be history," according to Jesse L. Lasky. He made this statement in connection with an announcement that "Burlesque," a filmization of the stage play by George Manker Watters and Arthur Hopkins, will be Paramount's first all-sound production. There will be no subtitles.

"Backstage vernacular, with actual speech, songs, musical accompaniments and sound effects will mark this first all-sound production," said Lasky. "All other pictures are, of course, being synchronized with sound, but they will also have sub titles. Music, some dialogue and songs will be heard in these. There are 30 current productions which will be released under this schedule.

"By the time 'Burlesque' is released, 1,500 theaters in the United States will be equipped for sound. At the present time, some 400 houses have this installation."

TWO COMEDIES IN STOCKS

Tonight the Nixon Players will present "Little Miss Bluebeard," by Avery Hopwood, adapted from the Hungarian of Gabriel Dregeley. Harry Bannister and Marguerite Merrill will play the two leading roles.

In the role of Bill Jones in "Lightnin'," this week's offering of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt, Gus Forbes will have a special opportunity for character portrayal.

Opening Monday night, August 20, the Nixon Players will present Ann Harding in "Smilin' Through." This will be Miss Harding's first appearance with the Nixon Players.

One of the features of the George Sharp Players' presentation of Frederick and Fanny Hatton's sparkling comedy, "Upstairs and Down," announced for to open August 20, will be the appearance of Mr. Sharp himself in the role played originally by Leo Carillo.

AERO CLUB, LEGION TO SEE MOORE FILM

The Aero Club of Pittsburgh and Allegheny Post, American Legion, will attend the opening of the aviation picture, "Lilac Time," starring Colleen Moore, in the Stanley tonight. Seats will be reserved for them. The two organizations will be guests of the Stanley Company.

WIFE BACK FROM CHURCH FINDS HUSBAND SUICIDE

Returning from church yesterday, Mrs. Joseph Fuchs, of 739 Cedar way, Oakmont, found her husband dead upon the floor of his bedroom, a bullet wound in the head and a revolver on the floor nearby. The report to the coroner indicated the man had taken his own life. Police say he had quarreled with his wife earlier in the day.

HOW TO BE Beautiful

by Maria Jeritza

Let Lemons Befriend Your Loveliness.

MARIA JERITZA

WE have heard of the unfortunate gentleman who plucked "a lemon in the garden of love." Possibly we have sympathized with him. But the woman who plucks a lemon in the garden of beauty is to be congratulated.

For of all practical, harmless, inexpensive aids to feminine beauty, not one is more useful than the lemon. Were I limited to the use of five beauty aids I would rank lemons, olive oil and sweet almond oil second only to soap and water.

There are a thousand and one beauty uses for lemons. Many of them you know. You realize, I am sure, that the juice of a fresh lemon squeezed into the last rinsing water of your shampoo softens the water, cuts grease and oil in your hair and makes it beautifully soft, fluffy and glossy. The rinse also lightens the tint of the hair just the least bit.

I always like to add a few drops of fresh lemon juice to the cold water in which I rinse my face or hands to close the pores.

Lemonade is the most refreshing and cooling of hot-weather beverages, is non-fattening unless sweetened a great deal and contains mineral elements that purify the blood. A few drops of fresh lemon juice added to each glass of drinking water perform the same service.

The girl who fights freckles against all odds may like to experiment with the following formula:

Powdered borax, one-half dram; sugar, one-half dram; lemon juice, one ounce.

This mixture is strong. Leave it on your skin only one minute then wash it off with cold water. But remember that a few freckles are preferable to a complexion irritated and coarsened by any bleach too strong for thin, delicate skin-texture.

When you work in the garden or discolor your fingers preparing vegetables, just sink your fingertips into the pulp of a half lemon and see how thoroughly this humble little friend to your beauty will whiten your nail edges.

Do you wish a facial pack to soothe, soften and bleach your complexion? Then mix the juice of one fresh lemon with one tablespoonful of pure olive oil. Cleanse your face, then apply this lemon-oil mixture on pads of absorbent cotton wrung out of hot water. Pat it gently into your face, neck and ears.

Prepare to lie down and rest 20 minutes, covering the oil on your skin with a thin layer of absorbent cotton. As soon as you lie down place a Turkish towel wrung out of hot water over your face, neck, oil mixture and absorbent cotton. After three minutes remove the towel.

Having rested 20 minutes, take the mixture off your face very gently with more absorbent cotton. Last of all, rub a piece of ice dipped in witch hazel or else cotton dipped in equal parts of ice water and witch hazel over your face, neck and ears.

You will be delighted I am sure with the result. Blackheads and other tiny blemishes will be removed and your skin should feel soft and velvety and look a shade lighter. About once each week, before dressing for the evening, this pack may safely be applied.

"If anyone hands you a lemon, make a glass of lemonade," suggests a cheerful philosopher. I would amend this, "If anyone hands you a lemon, proceed to make yourself more beautiful."

INDIAN CREEK PLANT NO. 2 PUT IN OPERATION

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 13.—Operations were resumed today by the Indian Creek Coal & Coke Company at its No. 2 plant, near Indian Head, giving employment to 50 men.

Irene Rich Plays In Bootlegger Romance

It takes a good actor to succeed in Hollywood. The three main roles on "Ned McCob's Daughter," a DeMille special, are being enacted by three actors as far from these film characters, in real life, as possible to be.

Robert Armstrong is again cast as a bootlegger; Irene Rich is a gaunt, unpolished New England woman, and kindly Theodore Roberts is the stern father. Anyone knowing gentlemanly Robert Armstrong, can imagine what a far cry he really is from a bootlegger. He is a graduate of Washington University, in Seattle, a home-loving, scholarly man.

Miss Rich graces a drawing room in Hollywood in the manner born. She is cultivated and a gentlewoman at all times, not to mention her personal charms. Theodore Roberts is one of the most beloved screen actors, anything but stern and unloving in real life.

Dolores Del Rio Plans to Sail August 18

Definite plans for the contemplated visit to Europe of Dolores Del Rio, sponsored by Edwin Carewe, her producer-director, have been made. The Mexican star will be presented in every capital of Europe. There are 14 countries on the itinerary and the tour will consume the remainder of the year. Traveling in the party will be Miss Del Rio, Edwin Carewe and Miss Del Rio's mother, Mrs. J. L. Asunsolo.

Although not chronicled, extensive plans are being made for Miss Del Rio's stay in Europe. Joseph M. Schenck, head of United Artists, now in Paris, is assisting in the arrangements for her reception in London, Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Rome and other foreign centers.

The party will sail on the Ile de France, August 18.

English Actor New Screen Hero For Gloria

Gloria Swanson's leading man in her third independently-produced motion picture, tentatively titled "The Swamp," will be Walter Byron, young English actor who was brought to Hollywood a few months ago by Sam Goldwyn.

Miss Swanson's announcement that Byron would appear opposite her in the picture, which was written and is to be directed by Erich Von Stroheim for United Artists release, followed the completion of a deal in which Mr. Goldwyn, to whom Byron is under contract, agreed to loan the player for the new picture.

1 KILLED BY HIT-RUN DRIVER

DEAD MAN IN MACHINE DESERTED BY MOTORIST

Two men riding in automobiles were injured seriously early today when the automobiles collided in Carson street near Thirtieth street. The driver of one machine leaped to the street and ran. Police have lodged a suspicious person charge against his companion, one of the injured. The victims are Max Levinthal, 30, of 1401 Colwell street, and George Hendlos, 22, of 2111 Trent street.

Both men are in the South Side hospital, where Levinthal was ordered detained by police. He stated he did not know the name of his companion, who ran after the crash. Police say the missing man caused the accident. Sylvester Bauer, of 403 Parkwood road, was driving the machine in which Hendlos was riding.

Victor Campoli, 21, of 1323 Seitz street was killed and three other young men were injured yesterday when an automobile struck a milk wagon in Second avenue, Hazelwood. Campoli was a passenger in a machine driven by a man who, police say, fled after the accident. William Dickson, 22, of 1328 Vickroy street, was arrested early today in the Mercy Hospital as the driver of the machine. The driver of the wagon and another passenger in the car were injured.

Jack Lembersky, 19, of 229 Fifteenth street, Homestead, a University of Pittsburgh student, was injured seriously when a machine in which he had obtained a lift was struck by another car in the William Penn highway early yesterday. He is in Columbia hospital. Alexander Lembersky, the boy's father, gave blood for a transfusion at the hospital yesterday. The youth suffered a crushed left leg. Lembersky and a companion were brought to the hospital in a passing automobile. Wilkinsburg police have numbers of both machines.

19 Women Spend Night Marooned In Picnic Bus

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Nineteen women returning to Washington from a picnic were caught between two washed out bridges and forced to spend Saturday night in a motor bus.

Hesitant at crossing a creek running high near Townsend, Md., the driver of their vehicle backed away and a few minutes later the bridge was swept down the stream. Later, it was discovered that a bridge a short distance behind them also had been washed out.

The Washington fire department sent help yesterday morning. A stout ladder was laid where the bridge had been and the women were carried across the creek.

WILD PARTIES CHARGED TO CAMPERS

Three women and nine men whom Oakmont police accuse of participating in a noisy party at "Rondavoo" camp on the bank of the Allegheny River at Oakmont will be arraigned for hearings tonight before Burgess J. M. Bossert as a result of a raid early yesterday.

All-night carousals in which men and women took part are alleged to be the basis of many complaints made by other campers. Acting on the complaints, Lieut. Edward Hellwig and Patrolman John Couch visited the camp and made the arrests, confiscating a small quantity of liquor.

MAJ. P. H. LOGAN DIES OF WAR INJURIES

Maj. Patton Lyon Logan, 54, president of the Logan-Gregg Hardware Company, died Saturday at his home, 1344 Squirrel Hill avenue. Wounded the day before the Armistice, Maj. Logan suffered the loss of his left leg, and he never entirely recovered from the injury which necessitated his virtual retirement from business four years ago.

Born in old Allegheny, Mr. Logan was educated in the grade schools and at Washington and Jefferson College. He then became associated with his father, Francis Lyon Logan in business.

He served in France as captain of Company H, Sixty-fourth Infantry, Seventh Division, and as a major of the Sixty-fourth Infantry. He was wounded in the attack on Mont Plaisir, in the Woevre.

He was a director of the Monongahela National Bank and a trustee of the North Presbyterian Church, of which he was a member. He was a member of the Duquesne Club, the University Club, the American Legion and numerous business organizations. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Lottie Eymann Logan and a daughter, Frances Lyon Logan.

VARE IS GAINING IN STRENGTH

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Senator-elect William S. Vare continued to show improvement at his home here today, where he has been confined since being stricken with paralysis.

According to Dr. John J. Shaw, who has been attending Mr. Vare, the latter is now partaking of solid food and his temperature and respiration continue to be normal.

"He had a very good week-end," Dr. Shaw said, "and yesterday he was sitting up in bed and appeared to be progressing rapidly. The paralytic condition is slowly clearing up, but this is a long and tedious process and will take considerable time."

PITTSBURGHERS HURT IN AUTO SMASHUP

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Aug. 13. — Three persons were seriously injured Sunday on the New Castle-Youngstown highway at Parkstown Corners, when their machine failed to make a sharp curve and crashed into a telephone pole.

The injured, all in hospitals here, are Rudolph Hammermeinster, 40, and his niece, Mrs. Bessie Dase, 19, both of East Pittsburgh, in the Shenango Valley Hospital; Dorothy Dase, 23 months, daughter of Mrs. Dase, in New Castle Hospital. The baby is in a serious condition. The husband of Mrs. Dase and others in another car immediately behind the wrecked auto escaped injury.

When an auto driven by her husband skidded on a curve in the southern part of the city and struck a tree, Mrs. Emmett Garret, 30, was killed. Miss Jessie Bailey, 23, and Robert Austin, 27, passengers, were injured. The latter may die. Garrett, arrested, is held on a manslaughter charge. All are Negroes.

At Rush Run, O., south of Steubenville, Weldy Yoko, 64, and his wife, Anna Yoko, 52, were probably fatally hurt when their machine was forced off the road and over an embankment by a supposedly drunken driver who escaped. The couple are in a Martins Ferry hospital.

1 DEAD, 9 HURT

STEUBENVILLE, O., Aug. 13.—One person is dead and nine hurt, four seriously, as the result of yesterday's automobile wrecks.

Five of them were hurt, one probably fatally, last night when an automobile driven by Floyd Petty, 35, Canton, O., was shoved into a ditch by a car in which Negroes were driving on the Steubenville-Canton road, one mile west of here. The Negroes did not stop. Mrs. Petty, 33, suffered a broken back and may die. She is in the Ohio Valley Hospital here. Her husband, Miss Pearl Brown, 22, Mrs. John Loutzenhizer and two children were also injured.

TWO HUNTED IN STILL EXPLOSION DEATHS

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

MONDAY, AUGUST 13, 1928

Supply Man

WALTER PERKINS

When Commander Richard E. Byrd sets off for the South Pole, A. Walker Perkins, insurance agent, Kenosha, Wis., will be in charge of supplies on the supply ship Chelsea. He wanted to go and "crashed" for an interview with Byrd, who accepted him for his enthusiasm.

HUNT FOR CASHIER

A search is being made today for Paul Buckley, cashier of the Terminal Bus Line at 967 Liberty avenue who, police say, disappeared Saturday afternoon.

A check on the company funds showed that approximately $1,000 is missing, officials say.

Mrs. A. M. Stonehouse, another cashier, notified detectives Saturday when she relieved Buckley that he had failed to turn the money over to her.

No charge has been made against Buckley.

BOY, 2, SCALDS SELF, DIES

Louis Tassoni, 2, tugged at the cover of a table in the kitchen of the Tassoni home at 418 Twenty-seventh street, McKeesport, today, and upset on himself a tub of scalding water. He died a few minutes later of burns.

AUTOS SEEN FLEEING BEFORE BLAST

Although members of the homicide squad of city detectives have given up the idea that there was foul play connected with the death of two men whose bodies were found in a fire-swept shack at Woodbine and Getty streets early Sunday, police are still searching for the owner of the still about which the men were working when they met their death.

An acetylene gas tank used in place of a gas burner exploded, killing the men instantly, deputy coroners believe. The victims have been identified as Michael Blazer, 45, alias Michael Blazen, of 5234 Keystone street, and Joseph Medela, 40, of 812 McCandless avenue. George Fugitt, 38, of Woodbine street, was burned when he attempted to rescue the men.

HUNT FOR MAN

Police also are searching for a Negro, who, they say, obtained $30 from Mrs. Blazer by calling at her home and informing her that her husband had been burned and that he needed the money. At the county morgue an autopsy failed to reveal any indications of foul play and showed that both men had met death from burns.

Deputy Coroner John T. McQuaid said that he believed an acetylene tank exploded, killing the men instantly. Detectives were called in after a shotgun and rifle were found beside the still and the rumor spread that firemen had found one of the men bleeding from a wound. Two automobiles filled with Negroes were seen quitting the scene as firemen arrived and an automobile owned by Blazer is missing, detectives also were informed.

Michael Pogner, 36, of 5414 Harrison street, a brother-in-law of Blazer, said that his relative left home early Saturday night to go to the Woodbine street building and was driving his machine at the time. Mrs. Blazer believes the car may be in possession of the Negro, who obtained the money from her.

No matter if you are six or sixty, you'll enjoy the 4 pages of Color Comics that are a regular part of the Evening Sun-Telegraph.

STILL EXPLODES, PYRE OF TWO

NO FOUL PLAY

Michael Blazer and Joseph Medela, 40, 812 McCandless avenue, met their deaths by fire, morgue autopsies show, and not through prior foul play, when acetylene gas believed used for heating mash in a still exploded in an old barn at Woodbine and Getty streets. City detectives on the morgue report scout the foul play theory and police now seek the still's owner.

WROTE "ASLEEP IN DEEP;" DIES WITH $3.90 IN POCKET

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—The body of Arthur J. Lamb, song writer who wrote "Asleep In the Deep," "Only a Bird In a Gilded Cage," "The Naughty Little Bird on Nellie's Hat" and many other songs was unclaimed today at an undertaker's.

Efforts to find relatives were unavailing. He is believed to have two sisters in Bath, England, and a cousin in Chicago. For three years preceding last July 4, he had resided at Hotel Collingwood, New York City.

Among his personal effects was found a membership card in the American Society of Composers, authors and publishers, of New York.

Alfred Solman, a lifelong friend of Lamb, told hospital authorities in a letter from Atlantic City, N. J., that he had heard Lamb speak of a sister in Bath and a cousin in Chicago. He did not know their names.

In his possession when he died were $3.90 in currency, a pawn ticket for 95 cents and an uncashed royalties check for $100 on a New York bank.

MRS. G. W. CHILDS DIES; LEDGER EDITOR'S WIDOW

After her husband's death in 1894, Mrs. Childs resided in Washington for several years, then returned to Philadelphia.

MICHAEL BLAZER

Michael Blazer, 45, 5234 Keystone street, was one of the two trapped in the old structure and burned to death.

RESIGNATION OF LANPHIER O. K'D

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—President Coolidge has accepted the resignation of Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier, commander of the Army's first pursuit group at Selfridge Field, Mich., the War Department announced today.

He is to become associated with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in commercial aeronautics. Lanphier was known as one of the Army's best fliers.

NO DEBATE IN PULPIT -STRATON

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The much discussed debate on morality which was proposed between Gov. Alfred E. Smith and the Rev. John Straton apparently is off.

In a statement read by his son Hillyer, at the Calvary Baptist Church here last night, the Rev. Straton denied he had agreed to debate with the Democratic presidential nominee in the Calvary Church. Gov. Smith, in Albany, is expected to make a reply today that will determine whether or not the debate will be held.

READY TO MEET IN HALL

The Rev. Straton's statement in part follows:

"Reference to the papers of last Tuesday will show two things. First, that I definitely accepted the Governor's challenge to meet him face to face, and, secondly, that from the very beginning I pointed out the inexpediency of holding such a discussion in Calvary Church, and the desirability of using Madison Square Garden or other such large hall, with an equitable division of tickets, etc. Both of these positions were reiterated in my formal letter to the Governor printed in the papers of Friday.

"I have felt that if the Governor simply desires an opportunity to answer the charges against him he should be willing to meet me in any suitable hall.

CITES HEFLIN ATTACKS

"In the course I took in this matter, I have done no more than some of our Catholic friends have done in denouncing Senator Heflin and other such public officials from their pulpits. In one case, so I am informed, from the pulpit of St. Patrick's Cathedral itself.

"No really sensible mind can deny that there is a vast difference between a preacher standing in his own pulpit and warring against threatening evils with weapons of Bible truth, and the opening of a church for purely political discussion between a candidate for office and the pastor of the church. I have earnestly desired to avoid having sectarian issues dragged into the discussion with Gov. Smith and I have feared that, if the Governor insisted that the discussion be held in Calvary church, he would be misunderstood, therefore I have left it up to the Governor to keep the religious issue out of the discussion because I positively refuse to be drawn into it on that plane and to do the reasonable and obviously wise thing by going to Madison Square Garden or other large hall, and I certainly hope that when he replies to my letter it will contain an acceptance at this point."

FRIEND OF YOURS?

How many of Pittsburgh's "traffic cops" do you know? Can you call by name the chap nearest your home? The fellow you pass halfway to your office in the morning? The men who wave you through downtown streets? The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph is introducing them to Pittsburgh. Here is one for today. His name tomorrow!

SATURDAY'S "TRAFFIC COP" WAS JOHN P. ABBOTT. MARRIED, 931 MANTON STREET. WHO IS CHAIRMAN AT GRANT STREET AND FOURTH AVENUE. HE HAS BEEN A TRAFFIC OFFICER FOR FOUR OF HIS NINE YEARS' SERVICE.

GIRL FEARED ABDUCTED FOUND SAFE IN CHICAGO

Mabel MacNeil, 20, who disappeared from her home, 727 North Beatty street, Thursday night, was picked up by police in Chicago today, according to a telegram received by her brother, Alvin MacNeil. She is being held pending her return to Pittsburgh.

MacNeil said there was nothing in the message from the Chicago authorities indicating that she had been taken from Pittsburgh against her will. In reporting the girl's disappearance to the police, her mother, Mrs. Daisy MacNeil, expressed the fear that she had been abducted. Mrs. MacNeil received a telegram from her daughter in Chicago Saturday night, saying she was "Safe and Sound."

Eager to show their appreciation to the Pirate bosses, the boys have arranged to make Barney Dreyfuss, club president, an honorary chief of Scouts at a ceremony just before the start of the game.

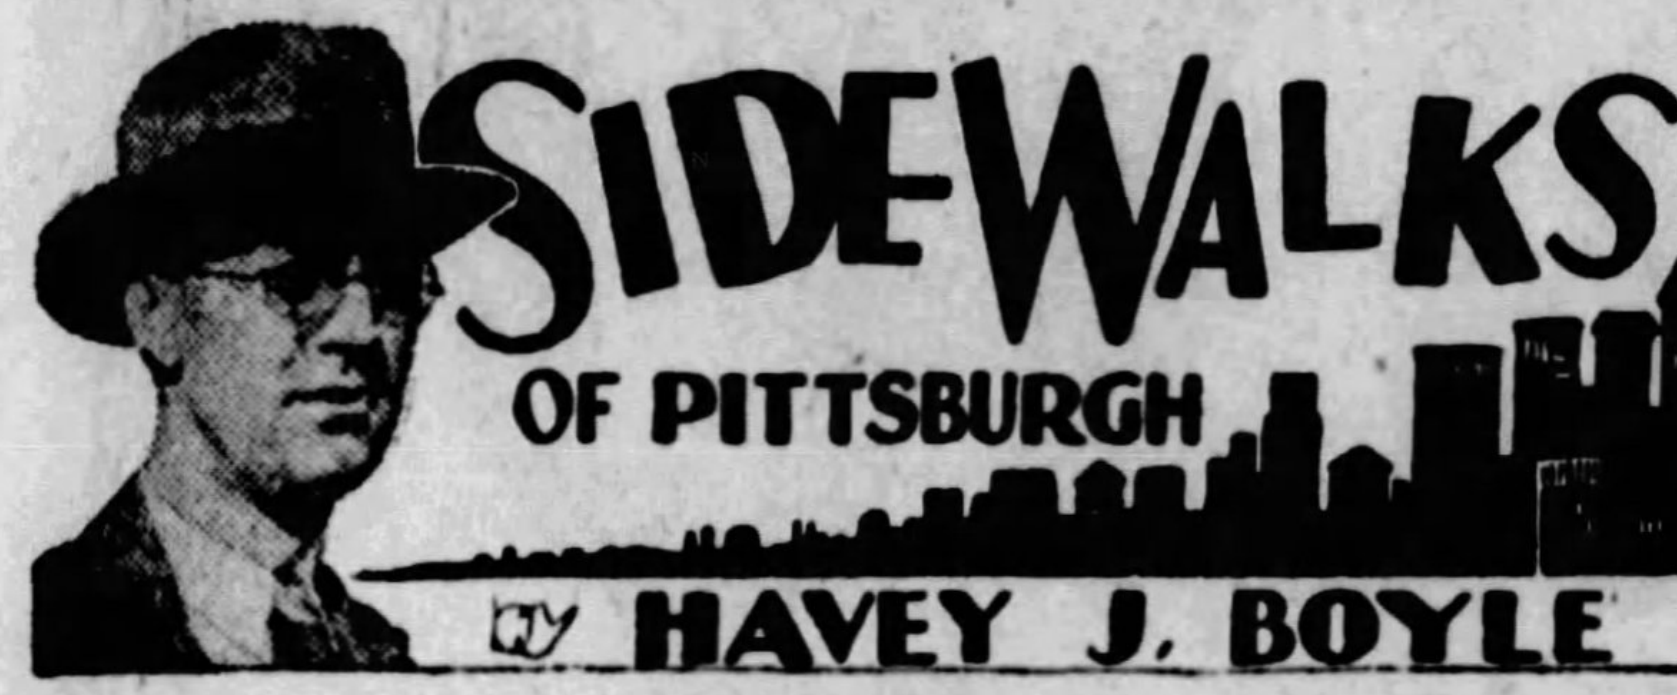
SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

By HAVEY J. BOYLE



BILL HARMONY, of Pittsburgh, who gets his daily quota of fish in Conneaut Lake, sends in a hint as to how he gets muskies. The diagram below was submitted by Mr. Harmony as a true picture of what goes on when he goes after his fish in Conneaut.

THAT MUSKIE WILL NEVER BREAK THAT CABLE
YOU'VE HOOKED A TIGER, BILL

The average fisherman simply gets a boat and a line and goes out into the lake. But the average fisherman gets very few fish. Hence the reasonableness of the plan shown herewith. The machinery is a bit cumbersome, but if it gets fish out of Conneaut it is well worth the time and trouble in taking it to the lake.

ONE thing missing on the machine is an automatic bait fastener. Much of the fun of fishing is removed due to the necessity of picking up a squirming worm (which does not have a skin you love to touch) and spearing it on a hook.

• • •

Jim Sansom has been having good luck with his fishing this summer. Jim, who serves on one of the county governmental bodies, is sort of an independent fisherman. He goes out for an hour and a half every day he's at the lake. If at the end of that time he has no fish he quits until the next day. Mr. Sansom reports that the fish seem to admire his independence and oblige fairly often by hopping from the lake onto Mr. Sansom's breakfast table.

ALUMNI and onetime under-graduates of the Tri-State News Bureau are to meet tonight in the Motor Square Garden. John Hernon is in charge of the affair.

It was just a year ago that the Tri-State News Bureau of Pittsburgh breathed its last and the affair tonight is to be a belated "wake."

The Tri-State was the jounalistic cradle from which quite a few Pittsburgh reporters and editors grew into journalistic manhood. The Tri-State produced statesmen, lawyers and detectives, as well as reporters.

IT WAS in that school where the neophyte learned how to get the facts, assemble them, and strip the story of all non-essentials, under the guiding hands of the late Chris Evans, John Burnett, Tom Smiley, Ehrett Smith, Dan Davis, Jim McAfee and others.

None of the younger boys on the staff made much money, but there was always lots of fun, and the only trouble with the hours was they were not long enough.

Tonight there should be much poppin' off about the old days at "the bureau," and many an old "beat" will be exhumed for a post mortem. How does it come that the editors were foolish enough to pay us for the good times we had on the Tri-State?

Dies in Oil Sea She Set Afire

SHAWNEE, Okla., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. Maggie King, 40 years old, was burned to death today in a pool of flaming oil, which had surrounded her tent-home in the night and had exploded when she lighted a fire in a cook stove.

The Gypsy Oil Company early this morning brought in an oil well a short distance from the tent in which Mrs. King lived, and oil from the flowing well had surrounded her home. Unaware of this, the woman lighted a fire in her stove, which oil company officials said caused an explosion. The entire pool of overflow oil, covering several acres, burst into flames.

As Mrs. King ran screaming from her tent, her clothing ablaze, she stumbled and plunged headlong into a flaming pool of oil several inches deep.

The fire for a time menaced several nearby wells, but fire fighters rushed from all parts of the field and managed to check it.

W. VA. FARMER DROWNS SELF IN RAIN BARREL

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 13.—After tieing weights around his neck, Calvin C. Rutherford, 74, truck gardener, plunged into a rain barrel on his farm on the Winchester pike and was drowned. He was despondent over approaching blindness.

OPERATION TODAY

Today Mary and Margaret Gibb, Siamese twins of Molyoke, Mass., are to submit in a New York hospital to the knife of Dr. Francis P. Weston, who seeks after careful study of their condition to separate them with a delicate and dangerous operation so that Margaret (left) may marry a young man whose name is withheld. In similar operations, almost all have proved fatal.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 13.

Well, the whole thing Saturday over the radio certainly was a surprise to me. I didn't think Hoover would accept. But he did.

He says every man has the right to ask the following questions "Is the United States a better place for the average man to live in because the Republican party has conducted the government eight years?

If we are privileged to ask the question, I will be the first to bite. Is it?

In the first place, Herbert don't know all about human nature, or he wouldn't try to appeal to the average man. No man wants to admit that he is average.

Did you see the picture and specifications of that average man they located last year? That took all the joy out of wanting to be average.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

THE GOLD MINE

By ERIC HEATH

THEY were a strange pair.

Burdock, familiarly known as "Burdy," was a towering, thick-set giant of a man, with a shock of tawny hair, gray at the temples. His age was unknown. Some people thought he must be near 60; others that he was "somewhere around" 50.

Rags, Burdy's pal, was slender and boyish in figure, not over 5 feet 4, with a pleasant face and merry light blue eyes that contrasted strangely with the deep brown tan of his complexion. Very few knew his real name. He was called "Rags" because he had a marked tendency to dress stylishly, and always wore neckties to match his socks, his hat a trifle on one side, and, moreover, when in town, he invariably carried a spotlessly clean handkerchief.

They had been pals for more than five years. No one had been able to figure out exactly why. But the general consensus of opinion in that small town where they had become familiar figures was:

"I reckon them two git along together o. k."

The thing that bound them together through all the ups and downs of these years was the conviction that they would find gold. Burdy had been a prospector all his life, following in his father's footsteps. And somehow, his belief that he would some day "strike it rich" must have been contagious for Rags, a former cowhand, came to share this same faith which nothing could dampen. From hardship to hardship, they trudged on, side by side. There were days in burning deserts when they almost died of thirst; nights in mountain passes when they nearly froze to death; times when the food supply got so low that their dinner consisted of half a can of beans, a fistful of hardtack, and broad grins that were meant to be encouraging to each other. When things were the most difficult they told themselves that that gold mine of theirs was somewhere; it was only up to them to find it.

But repeated failure was beginning to take its toll. Their optimism was being whittled away, bit by bit. It was becoming a real job to keep from being grouchy and flaring up at each other.

Slowly, the idea was beginning to dawn in the minds of both that they might never end their search. They might go on and on, until they were broken and good for nothing, and would perhaps land finally in the county poorhouse.

Rags decided at last that he should give it up, and go back and join some ranch outfit in Wyoming or Nevada. But day after day he kept putting off the moment when he would have to tell Burdy. What could the old man do? He had never worked at anything but prospecting, having started with a fairly large "stake" that had by now dwindled to almost nothing. It seemed to Rags it would be like throwing Burdy down, to dissolve their partnership.

Hearing that valuable ore had been struck in a certain region, they had journeyed out there. Over a week's work on the new ground had resulted, as usual, in futility.

Early one evening they had built a fire in a small gully, and, having washed the supper dishes, they were sitting opposite each other, smoking their pipes thoughtfully. Burdy, who was rarely pessimistic, no matter what the luck, looked glum, sullen.

"I ought to tell him now," Rags thought. He cleared his throat, but the words would not come.

"Sing some songs, will yuh?" Burdy's request was almost a growl.

Tilting back comfortably against a small hummock, his eyes looking up at the stars, Rags began to sing. He did not know many songs, but what he sang did not matter—it was the way he sang it. Rags' clear tenor voice, ringing out in the immense, inky black stillness of the night, sent a throng of conflicting emotions through Burdy. He loved this boy as he would have loved a son of his own. And now—he had failed the lad! He had led him on by a foolish hope of wealth. Burdy felt he was to blame for wasting Rags' youth. He should never have let the boy become his partner. He had always believed that one day success would crown his quest. But now—he couldn't go on believing. They had come to the end of the road.

Without saying a word to each other on the subject, they knew they would pull up and move to a new place on the morrow.

After breakfast, Burdy had an attack of illness. He thought it was stomach trouble, with which he had been occasionally afflicted. Rags realized he was too weak to continue the journey. He decided that they should go to a ranch house which was situated about three miles back, and stay there until the old man felt better.

The ranch man and his wife welcomed them with western hospitality, and Burdy was made comfortable in a spare bedroom. Rags was to sleep on a cot which had been moved into one corner of the room. After the first visit of the nearest doctor, who declared Burdy's condition as not serious, Rags had a chance to look around and take stock of their new surroundings.

There was a handsome, middle-aged woman staying at the place for the autumn. Rags learned that she lived in New York, but the local folks seemed to know very little about her.

There was also an 18-year-old girl, a niece of the ranch man, an orphan, who made her home with her aunt and uncle. Rags thought she was the prettiest child he had ever seen. Her name was Mary. It didn't take him long to decide that Mary was his favorite name.

"A nice one I am to be thinking about courting a girl," Rags told himself indignantly. "Why, I'm a flat failure, that's what I am. With hardly a dollar in the world. If only the mine—" but bitterly he resolved to stop thinking of his misfortunes. It was thoughts of this sort that had brought him to where he was.

Burdy, still too weak to be moved, but restless, often asked Rags to sing to him in the evening. Rags would sit at the window. He could always sing better when he gazed at the stars.

They had been there almost a week when the lady from New York, who had given her name as Esther Stillwell, met Rags on the front porch, as she was returning from an afternoon walk. She sat down in a chair by his side.

"I've wanted to talk to you for some days," she said. "But I could never seem to find the opportunity before now."

Rags looked at her in surprise. What could this lady have to say to him?

"Has anyone ever told you that you have a wonderful voice?"

"Oh, the boys kind of like to hear me sing," Rags answered modestly.

"The boys!" she scoffed. "What do they know about voices?"

Rags became confused. It had never occurred to him to disregard the opinion of "the boys" in anything.

"Of course you need to study," she went on. "I happen to know an impresario who would be glad to take you under his wing. He is always on the outlook for new talent. I know, because I was one of his 'finds' myself. I was clerking in a store at the time he happened to hear me sing. He paid my way while I was studying and now—" she smiled. "I'm afraid I'll have to tell you who I am. Esther Stillwell is not my real name. Stillwell was my mother's name. I always use it when I go on vacations, because if I didn't, I would have to meet a lot of people and do a lot of things. And when I go on vacation, I want a real rest—away from opera people——"

"You sing in the opera?" Rags asked.

"Frequently in the Metropolitan in New York. You've heard of that?"

Rags nodded, too awed to speak.

"And also I am considered quite a good judge of voices," she went on. "When I say you have a remarkable voice, I know just what I am talking about. And this impresario I was telling you of—"

When Rags had finished telling Buddy all about it, he concluded: "You see, we've found our gold mine, old pal. And here's where you come in. When I'm a great singer, I'll need a manager, see? That's you."

Rags' idea of a "manager" was a very vague one. But then Burdy's idea was vague, too. So they were both satisfied.

There was one other person to whom Rags wanted to tell the great and glorious news. Leaving Burdy grinning contentedly, he went to find Mary.

NEIGHBOR FUSS PUTS OFFICER IN HOSPITAL

Beaten on the head with a heavy hammer when he went to quiet neighbors reported quarreling in Norwich street, Patrolman Frank Hutchison, 30, of 1004 Norwich street, today is a patient in Mercy Hospital. The officer suffered a possible fracture of the skull but is reported improving. Police are holding Charles A. Butterworth, 17, of Norwich street as his assailant.

Butterworth struck the policeman in defense of his mother, whose arrest he feared, he said yesterday when arraigned in Morals Court. He was committed to jail without bail pending the outcome of Hutchison's injuries.

Mrs. Butterworth and another woman were quarreling about a children's fuss in the street, it was said, and the policeman ordered Mrs. Butterworth to lower her voice. This brought the son into the argument.

The "Angel of the Alley" Looms as Future Broadway Figure

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Ione Farr, just out of high school, gets a position with Max Weimar's music publishing house in New York. Her chum, Marie Karey, is engaged to Palmer Elliott, a young lawyer, and plans to marry him on a 50-50 basis. She is always holding up as a model Ione's sister Jenepher, who is married, has a small son and also holds a fine position in a smart New York shop. Benz, Weimar's office manager, takes Ione to Tin Pan Alley where she meets the famous song writer, Wolfie Speed, and persuades Antony Ros, a matinee idol, to use Speed's new song after Benz had failed. She goes motoring with Benz, who asks her what marriage has to do with love. Alan Blake, an accompanist for the Weimar concern, who shows intense admiration for Ione, attends a Hallowe'en party at her house and Ione realizes she loves him. Little Timmy gets lost and doctors fear for his life. Jenepher tearfully explains to her father that she is only working so her son can have a better chance in life, but Mr. Farr does not see it that way. Marie is married, and during her honeymoon her place is taken at the office by Fluff Hartwick, a confirmed flirt. Blake confesses his love for Ione and Mrs. Farr is very happy. Benz asks Ione to persuade Ros to take another song. She discovers Fluff Hartwick bending over Blake as he plays the piano and grows jealous. She persuades Ros to take the song. Her salary is raised and Weimer plans to give her a big chance.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"YOU'D have me live on a woman's money? Is that what you'd want?"

"No—oh, Lanny, don't look like that! You see, we'd both be earning, very chummy and modern. Both put something into the house. Fifty-fifty marriage—" She was half crying now, trembling.

He said, through shut teeth, "Never think of that, Ione. I'll have no woman bringing me her pay envelope. If I can't support a wife I'll have none; make no mistake on that!"

"I've hurt you now! And it was only I thought we wouldn't have so long to wait. Indeed—oh, indeed——"

He drew her to him and kissed her. But he said hardly a word when he put her on the train; she had a last impression of his blanched face moving away down the platform.

A shadow fell athwart the brightness of their love. They would come together, reaching out eager hands, eyes seeking in a passion of yearning.

But glad, free words were caught back; they would be mute suddenly, white-lipped.

Try as she would, she could not but remember the misery of indignation in his eyes the night by the pilot house when he pulled away from her. It made her feel that she had done a bold, shameful thing. Her pride hid its face.

She knew that Alan had been cut to the heart. She imagined resentment growing in him; imagined his love for her assailed by her blundering eagerness. And developed a self-consciousness that was like a chill between them.

She turned rather desperately to her work and found a relief from her hurt. Learning how to talk up the good points of the Weimar songs; learning how to build convincing argument, how to throw in a dash of flattery, a bit of persuasion, a touch of indifference. Benz never tired of teaching her; of watching her face light up, her blue eyes raised suddenly.

It was harder learning how to write the little publicity stories newspapers would print. Light, gay things they must be, short tales whimsically told of the actors and actresses who sang their songs. And always with mention of the songs cleverly worked in.

She would start bravely, only to become enmeshed in a tangle of words, brought up short against a leering array of adjectives.

"Write the way you would talk," Benz told her. "Six syllables? Editors would faint! No trailers on your words; all short and snappy."

He ran his pencil through four paragraphs at the head of the page. "Don't begin an article. Jump into it and when you get to the end stop. Try this again, now."

It was easier after that. A heady experience, feeling the pull of imagination, the joy of creating even so slight a thing.

But there was reaction in tedious moments; sometimes in dull hours. She felt a lack some way, a longing for color.

Benz invited her to the theater one evening. "You'll want to hear Ros sing our new song. You should, anyway, as part of your job. Better come with me; have a bite of something tasty. We'll take in the show afterward. See if he's doing us credit."

"It's the thing to do? Yes, I can see that. But I could go—not trouble you to take me."

"Trouble me that way all your life, Ione. I'd ask nothing more delightful."

So it was that Broadway began to see the small bright "Angel of the Alley" as some of them called her, and with Eddie Benz.

CHAPTER XIX.

IT WAS a contnual dazzle to Ione.

Lights mingling in a flood of radiance, sending it lapping at her feet. Music thrilling along her nerves, lifting her on a bright joy. Laughter tossing, gleaming so, like the shine of things on Christmas trees.

Big Eddie Benz always at her side—regal fellow drawing all eyes when they came into a restaurant and followed the bowing waiter to the table. How everybody hastened to nod and smile—to have a word with him!

She would watch his careless geniality, feeling herself caught in a rainbow.

Once she studied a woman at another table—a famous actress in a drift of satin and chinchilla—brought her eyes back thoughtfully.

"You're not ashamed of me, Eddie? I'm not like them; like your gorgeous friends. All pearls and richness. No doubt they're thinking 'Who's the sparrow with the royal Eddie Benz?' Suppose I'd better buy some pretty things."

"You need only to be yourself to put them all in the shade, my dear. Not a woman here but would give the world to look like you.

"You like pearls, then? Envy the Paradise Birds their plumage? If you'd let me give it to you—"

He saw her face blanch; saw the sweet lips straighten.

"There now—don't throw up a defense. I meant only friendliness. Why shouldn't I do those things for you? A trifle for me and I'd be happy—oh, you've no idea! Forget it, Ione—"

But she was white and silent all evening.

She took what she had been saving from her raise and visited Jenepher's shop. She never had bought there before, but now she felt that she must have gallant things. One beautiful outfit—oh, yes—that wasn't too much to ask. Dress the sparrow in Paradise feathers now and then; feel the sheen.

The Paradise feathers were packed carefully in a pasteboard box and taken to the office to be changed there the next time she went out with Eddie Benz. She waited till everyone was gone and very exultant she felt, full of beauty, standing before the long glass. Very radiant was the girl who looked back at her; vivid, expectant thing.

Benz was in the hall; he stared, light striking down his eyes. "Ione—lovely, oh, Lord—" His hands shook on her arm. "Suppose you wouldn't let me kiss you? Just once?"

She gathered the wrap up and tossed him a light glance, laughing. "Am I really so swell-elegant? I'll send you the handsome plumage some day for your caresses, friend Eddie. 'Tis that you'd kiss—not the bird the feathers make so fine."

"You won't understand!" But he took her down to his car, helped her in almost coldly. They were sliding out into traffic when she caught sight of Alan's face—of his eyes, hastily turned, filled with pain.

He had been standing in the doorway. Waiting for her while she rode away with Eddie Benz. Pain in his eyes. A blade twisting at her heart, the pain in his eyes.

Ione planned to go to the studios the next morning. She would drop in and call "Ho, Lanny—going to lunch?" Casually, so he might not see that her heart was torn.

But work piled; toward noon a "sister act" came in to see Benz and he called her to the conference. When it was over Alan would have gone out.

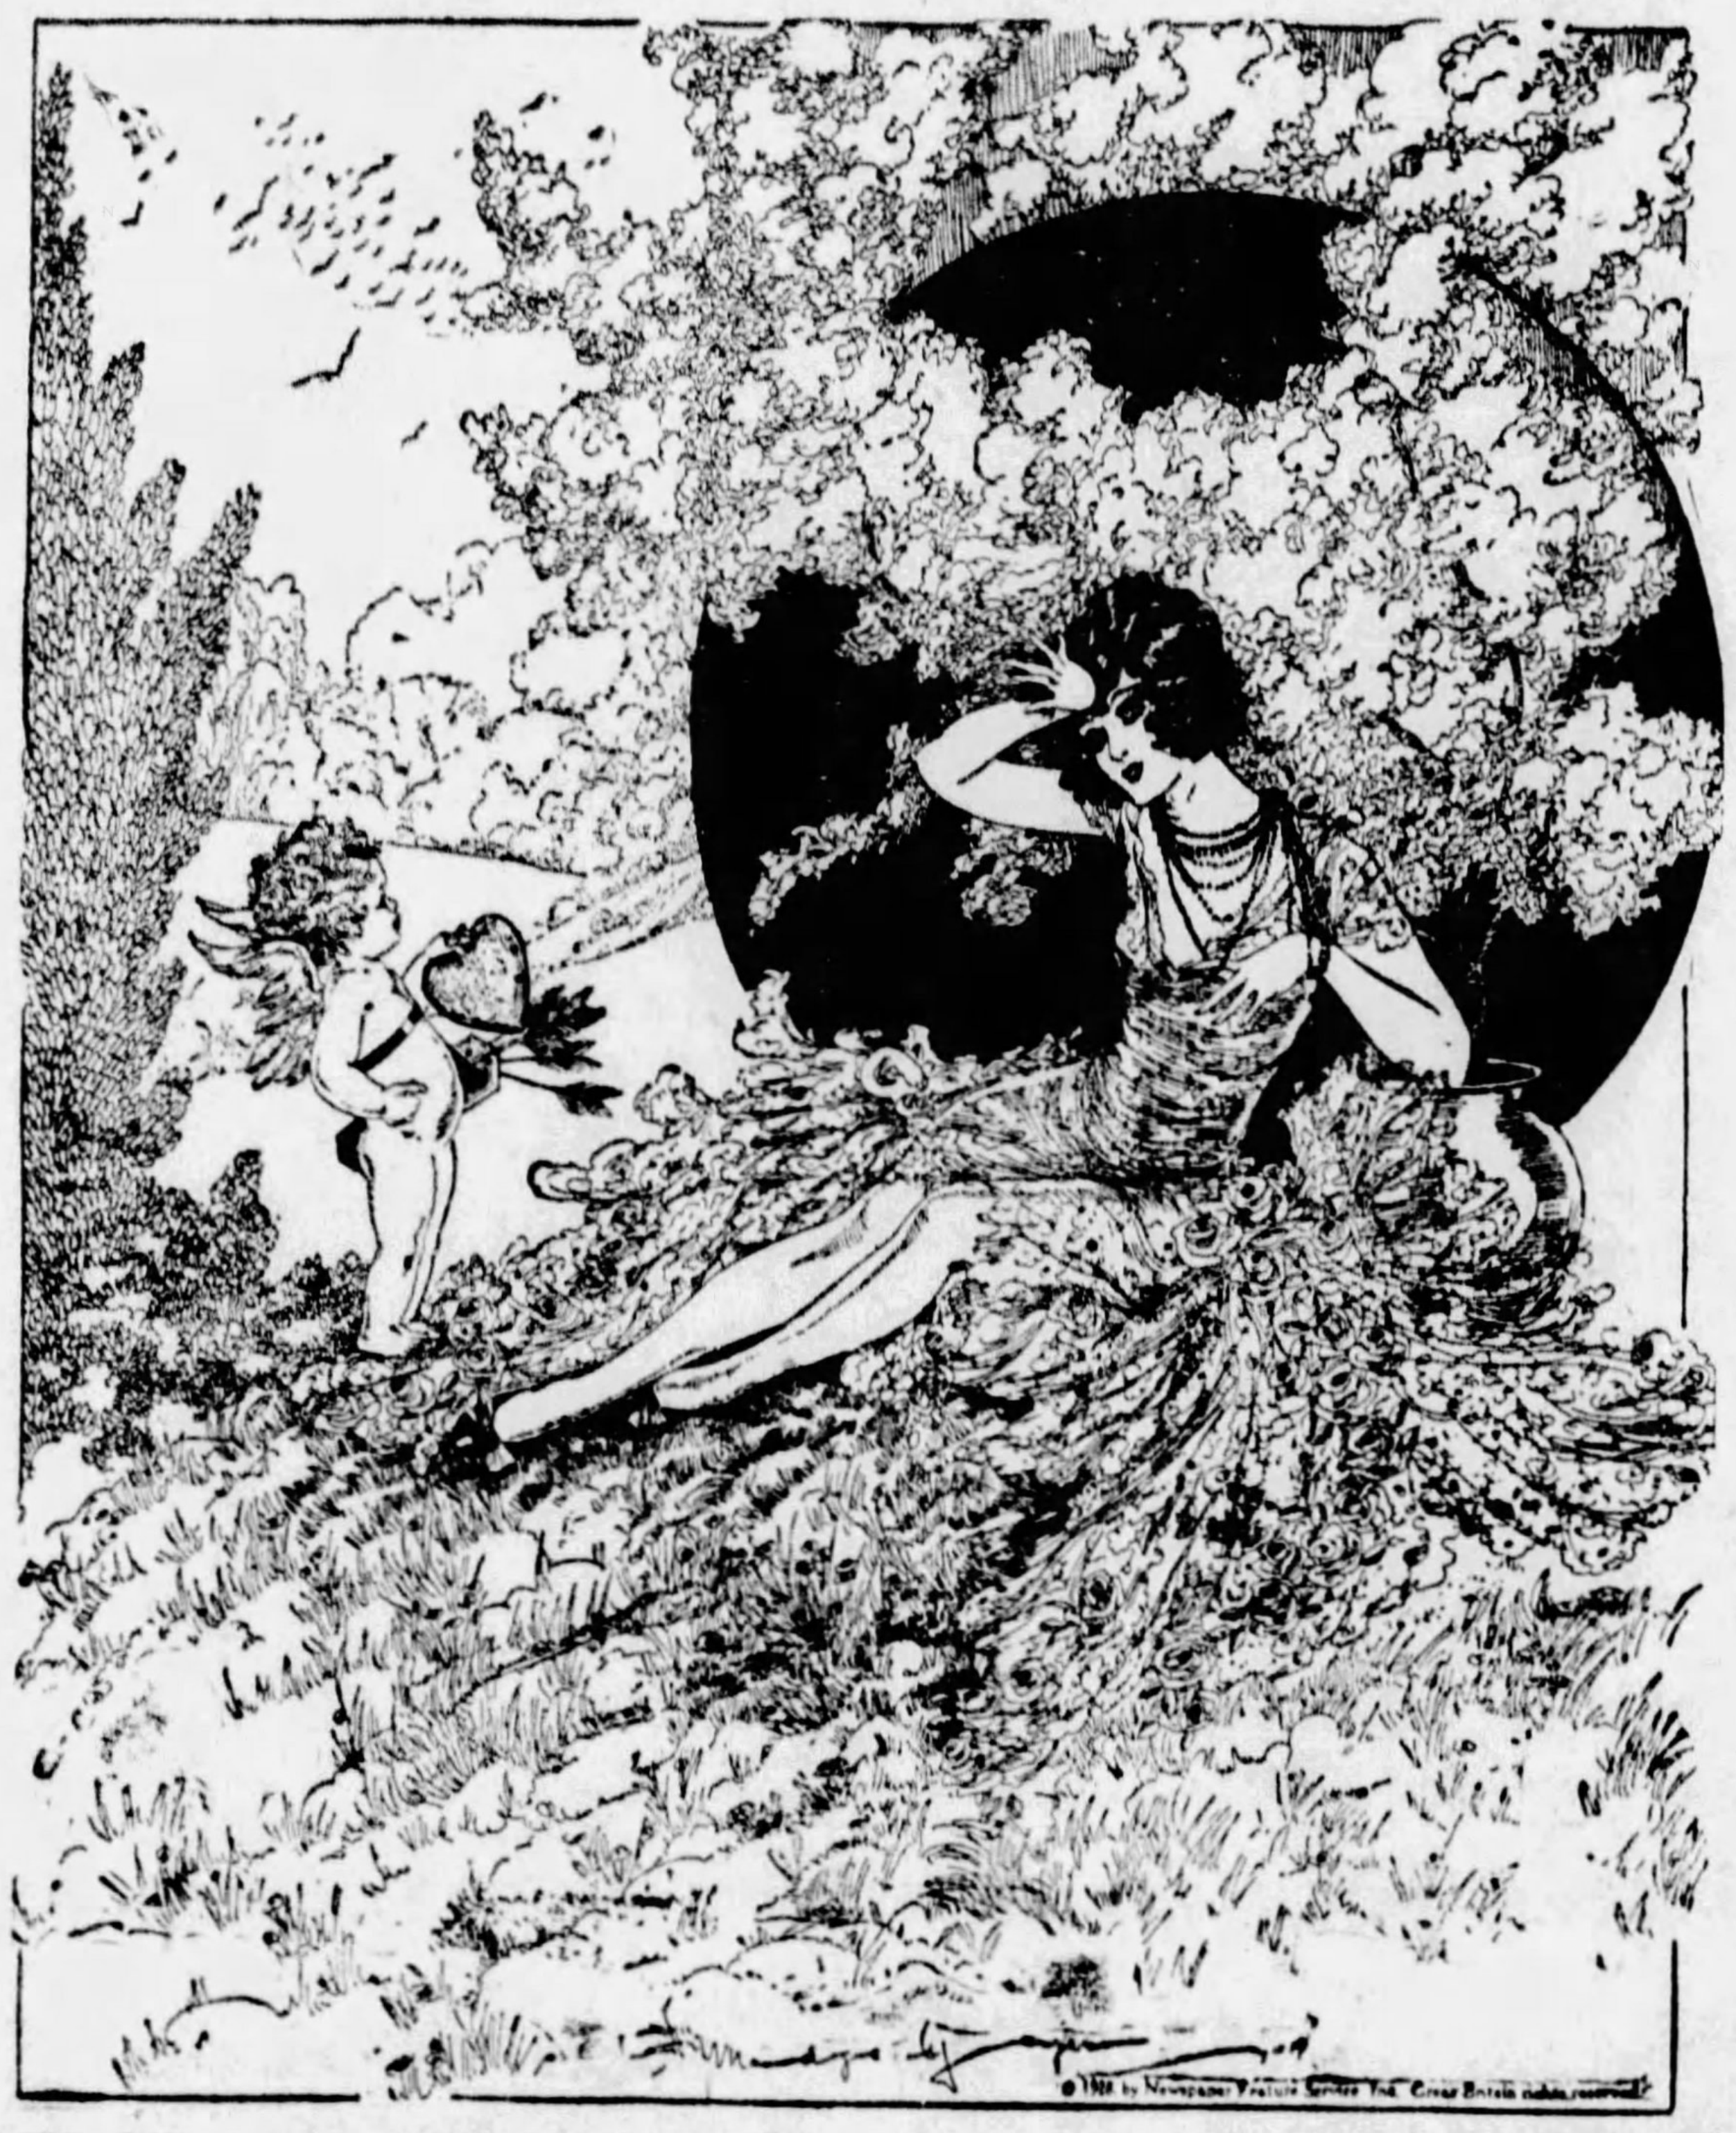
Love's Ambassador -:- By Madge Geyer



©1928 by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

"OH, I'M so sorry I frightened you. But please, won't you waken? For I have a gift here for you. I am the ambassador of one who is too shy to come to you himself, and who sends me bearing his heart. I know what a lovely heart it is, how full of love it is, and it's yours for the taking. So won't you please accept it and make him happy?

"I've known him for a long time and have known each day of the love which has become stronger and stronger with every passing moment. I can assure you that you'll never regret it, for such a Love as this is too wonderful to pass by.

"Oh, you'll accept it? And may I tell him that he shall come to you immediately to seal the bargain with a kiss? Then I must rush away, for far be it from Love's Ambassador to keep two loving hearts apart. Good luck and every happiness to you my dear, and I'll be camping by your hearth forever and ever."

Love's Embers Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Madge Discusses Mary's Behavior With Noel Veritzen

THIS time, at my repetition of my theory that Mary did not mean a word of the cruel speech she flung at him, Noel Veritzen did not stop playing. But he drew his bow across the strings so swiftly that if people had been dancing to his music they would soon have found themselves gasping for breath.

"Slower!" I cautioned. "I know I'm astonishing you, but you mustn't betray your feeling in your music. However, I'm not going to keep you much longer. Upon second thoughts it will be much better for Mary if you and I go back to the campfire together. I shall explain that I followed the race of Mary, Marion and Junior, but was unable to keep up with them over the dunes and missed them coming back—all of which is the truth. Then I shall say that I came across you and brought you back for the singing which we always have when the moon comes up. It's rising now, as you see. So finish this piece, and then we'll go back. I'll tell you the rest as we go, and we'll see if there's something which can be done."

He played the selection through to the end and put his violin in its case. Then he put his hand beneath my elbow, and we started across the dune. With strict fidelity to his compact, he kept silent, and I went on giving voice to the theory which first had come to me when Mary, in her room at the farm, cried hysterically, "I can't, I can't," at my urging her to grant Noel's request to see her, and which had received reinforcement within the last few minutes.

"I do not believe Mary is acting upon her own volition in refusing to see you, Noel," I said slowly. "She appears to me like a child obeying some command in fear of a punishment if she refuses."

He started violently.

"But who would coerce her?" he asked, wildly. "Surely you do not think she is on such terms with young Jackson that he would dare give her a command to——"

I stopped in our descent of the dune and whirled, facing him.

"For absolute and colossal idiocy, commend me to a young man in love!" I exclaimed. "No! I don't think that Mr. George Logan Jackson enters into this at all."

"But who?" he repeated in bewildered fashion, and I put my hand upon his arm and drew him down the dune.

"I am afraid I shall startle you if I tell you, Noel," I said. "But let me ask you, have you had no objections raised to your friendship with Mary?"

He stopped again and struck his hands together.

"I see it all now!" he said. "I didn't understand before. But I ought not to put my theory into words, for if I were to speak literally, I should have to answer your question by saying that I have had no word said to me concerning Mary. That can all wait, however. It's Mary's attitude which troubles me. It unsettles me so. Do you know in a way I was almost glad when she was so decided and so brutally frank about her feeling for me. I'm not saying it wasn't a facer, for I've told you how much I care for her. But it decided things at least, in a way, set me free. But now I'm as puzzled as I was before. You—you can't mean, Mrs. Graham, that you think Mary cares for me?"

HOW TO KEEP WELL by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

One Great Scourge Still Hanging On

SOME time ago I attended a luncheon, given for the purpose of bringing together a group of persons who might become interested in the eradication of leprosy. There were several addresses. The most remarkable was that of Mrs. Wade, the wife of Dr. Wade, who has charge of the leprosy colony in the Philippine Islands.

DR. COPELAND

Mrs. Wade's story was a recital of what can be accomplished in the cure of this dreadful disease. There are twelve millions of lepers in the world and the disease is particularly prevalent in the Orient. But let no one suppose the West is free from it. There are several hundred known cases in the United States.

While I was Commissioner of Health, I sent from New York City, 17 lepers to the Federal hospital in Louisiana. In several states of the Union there are persons with this disease.

It is so common in the Philippines that one of the islands has been set apart as a colony for lepers. It is a city in itself. Six thousand victims of leprosy reside there.

There are three types of the disease. The form about which most of us have some knowledge is the skin or nodular type. In skin leprosy, copper-colored or dark red patches are observed on the body, face or backs of the hands or feet. They go away and then return. After a while the skin becomes thickened and lumpy.

This process, affecting the tissues of the face, produces such a change in shape and appearance as to make the victim look like a lion. The nose and throat are involved, changing the voice and interfering with the breathing.

The nodules may ulcerate, leaving open sores. The eyes may be involved, with resulting blindness.

The nervous or smooth type is a little less severe. In this there are patches of dried skin. The nerves of the arms and legs become thickened. In consequence sensation is destroyed. The fingers and toes may drop off.

In a third form we have a combination of both the types I have described. All types last for years before death comes to give relief.

We don't know exactly how leprosy is passed on from one person to another, but it is regarded as an infectious disease. It is not hereditary, but inoculation of the others is quite likely to take place when one member of a family is afflicted.

Funds are always needed to make possible more extensive study of the disease and particularly to supply the chaulmoogra oil which has been found to cure it. Mrs. Wade says that during the past five years 1,006 persons have been cured and sent back to their homes. She says, too, that no less than 40 per cent of the cases are relieved if not cured.

We should be glad to go forward with this work. It will be a great contribution to the cause of humanity, as well as to science. It is dreadful to think of the sufferings of the victims of leprosy. From Bible times this has been a scourge of the Orient.

Answers to Health Queries

C. D. M. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—Weight reduction is merely a matter of self-control as regards the diet. Exercise is, of course, essential.

E. E. S. Q.—What causes shingles and what will cure them?

A.—The exact cause is unknown. An infection or run-down condition have much to do with it.

* * *

T. Y. Q.—What causes shingles or herpes of the face? How can it be treated?

A.—A nerve condition brought about by some infection is a possible cause. Overwork and worry are also factors. The patient should follow his advice most carefully.

M. O. M. Q.—What can I do for enlarged pores?

2. Will three prunes and plenty of green vegetables produce enough iron in the system each day?

3. What do you advise for boils?

A.—Apply hot and cold compresses to the face, alternately, for 10 minutes night and morning. This is often effective.

2. Yes.

3. You should have a thorough physical examination to determine just what your trouble may be. Make sure that the bowels eliminate properly.

1—What can be done for oily hair?

2—Is there any way to stop growing, and will I grow after I reach 14 years of age?

1—Keeping the hair and scalp immaculately clean and using a good hair tonic should be helpful.

2—You may have reached your full growth and will not grow any taller. In most instances, however, one continues to grow up to the age of 21.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, August 14

AN eventful and memorable day is the presage read from very lively stellar operations. While there may be sudden visitations and occurrences, radically affecting the environment and the fortunes, and although generally these carry advantages and some substantial benefits, yet there are money risks involved. With prudence in this respect there should be much active and constructive good fortune, and happiness in personal relations as well.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a memorable year, with possibly radical change of environment and fortunes. With conservative use of the finances, there should be substantial benefits and rewards for industry.

A child born on this day may have many excellent qualities and talents fitting it for place and solid position in life, but it should be trained to conserve its substance.

We can be led in all our ways by a power that transcends our limited faculties.—GEORGE BROWNELL.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN by HELEN ROWLAND

WHAT WOMEN DON'T TELL

SOME girls are hard to kiss, some are easily kissed, and some are positively HELPFUL!

Even a stormy married life, with all its vicissitudes, is less of a bore than the dead calm of placid, uneventful single blessedness.

If you are a man, never TRY to understand a woman; just keep perfectly quiet and wait. Sooner or later she'll spill over and tell you all about herself—or burst!

HELEN ROWLAND

The girl who can balance herself on the very fine line between piquing a man's jealousy and puncturing his faith, has found the perfect "combination" for holding his interest as long as she cares to.

• • •

It takes six or seven cocktails for a man to reach that stage of complete self-confidence where he feels cocksure that his wife won't suspect that he's had a drink.

• • •

The average society marriage appears to be a "cut-in" affair, in which a woman is whirled right out of one man's arms into another's—and another's—and another's!

It's the plain, undecorative man, like the plain, substantial kitchen clock, that can usually be most depended on. The ornamental drawing-room variety are always either fast, uncertain, or running down.

It is the supreme test of a man's violent infatuation when he forgets his fresh sunburn and welcomes a woman's petting with a smile.

Some girls stay single because of choice—and some because of the lack of choice.

• • •

As a "hitching-post," the altar-rail seems to have lost its popularity and outworn its reliability.

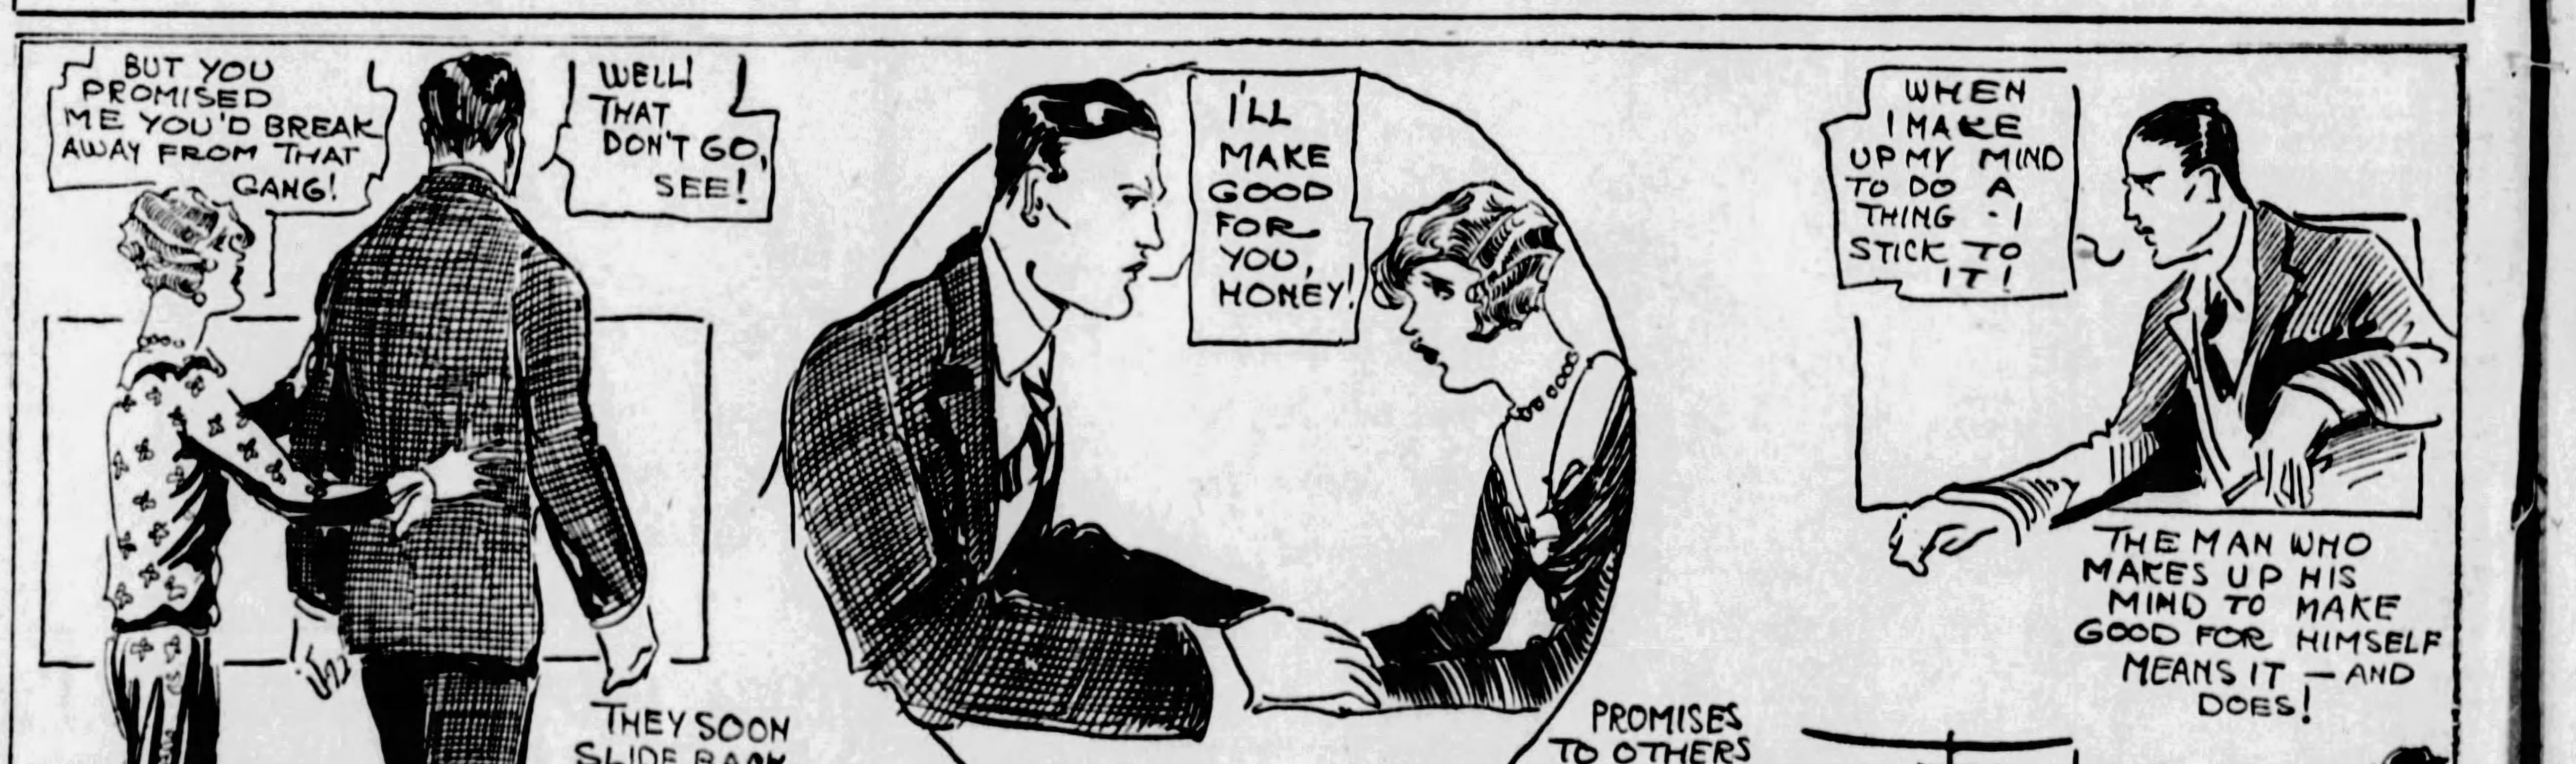
Reforming a Man Thankless, Says Fay King



BUT YOU PROMISED ME YOU'D BREAK AWAY FROM THAT GANG!
WELL! THAT DON'T GO, SEE!
THEY SOON SLIDE BACK INTO THEIR OLD FAULTS!
I'LL MAKE GOOD FOR YOU HONEY!
PROMISES TO OTHERS ARE SO EASILY MADE AND — BROKEN!
WHEN I MAKE UP MY MIND TO DO A THING - I STICK TO IT!
THE MAN WHO MAKES UP HIS MIND TO MAKE GOOD FOR HIMSELF MEANS IT — AND DOES!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

IF YOU are going to marry a man of many faults because he has promised to reform, be sure that his promises are made to himself and not to you!

For only when a man makes up his mind to make good for himself is he really sincere.

If he is going to depend upon you standing on the sidelines cheer-leading and signaling, you may be sure this will soon become a bore and a bother and he will hate you for your help!

The only reforms that count are those which come from within and do not depend upon outside influences, which may change.

The man who makes excuses for his failing by saying that he has no one to make good for would not make good for them if he had.

When such a man meets someone he becomes infatuated with, he makes sudden reforms, but let that sudden love simmer down a bit and he forgets all those ardent promises he made.

It is only when he determines to make good for himself that he will make good for others.

I have seen men who finally discovered they couldn't take a drink without getting drunk before they'd stop, finally determine to stop drinking.

Those who stopped for some woman while they loved her more than liquor, eventually slid back to their beloved booze.

But those who stopped for THEIR OWN GOOD stayed on the wagon and are still rooting for mineral water!

MILK, ICE FUND NEARS $1,500 MARK

Who would like to contribute $26.57 to bring The Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund up to $1,500? Or who is there who would like to add a dollar or two or three to help bring it up to that figure? Perhaps someone would prefer giving $1.50, the amount needed to feed one of the association's babies for a whole week. That isn't a large sum, to be sure, but it does a large amount of work, for in one week a baby that is slowly starving to death may, by proper feeding and care, be restored to living that is something more than mere existing.

The milk alone, however, will not accomplish this result. It takes the wise instruction gratuitously offered by Milk and Ice officials to achieve the desired end. Not only is this instruction given free, but that it must be followed is made absolutely necessary if the babies are to continue in the association's care. Semi-weekly clinics and records at association headquarters keep the officials in close touch with the progress their little patients are making and the work is thus made doubly efficient. The fund today totals $1,473.43.

3 STEAL SLOT MACHINES

Parking a large touring car before the rooming house of Rose Lee, 10 Third avenue, at 1 a. m. today, three men, carrying revolvers, demanded admittance and carried off two slot machines containing $40.

Robert McCann, a lodger in the house, who opened the door for the visitors, was commanded at the point of a gun to stand along the wall and was robbed of $70. The proprietress was locked in her room according to the police report.

While one of the men held the inmates at bay, the other men carried out the machines. No arrests have been made.

PITTSBURGHERS IN AIR RACES

Jack Morris, captain of the Army Air Corps Reserve operating from Rodgers Field, left today for San Diego, Cal., where a new monoplane is being constructed. With it Morris and Col. William Thaw will enter the national cross-country airplane races next month.

Morris will act as co-pilot and navigator for Thaw. The ship will be given several tests on the coast before it is flown east to New York for the start of the race.

DEATH CLAIMS H.G. DRAVO, 75

Horace Gillespie Dravo, 75, prominent iron and steel manufacturer, died yesterday at his home, 5520 Ellsworth avenue. A lifelong resident of Pittsburgh, Mr. Dravo spent virtually all his life in the iron and steel industry. He leaves his widow, Lizzie Downes Dravo; a son, Hudson Downes Dravo; two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth D. Morris and Miss Dorothy Dravo and two grandchildren.

BUGS BAER Says

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NO Olympic games end without plenty of squawking by the weaker and smaller nations and plenty of beefing by the stronger and bigger countries.

Why not end the Olympic games altogether. They started in glory when a Greek commuter galloped 26 miles to spread the news that the enemy was coming.

But they do things now in the Olympic games that he never did on that gallant stampede.

That brave Greek ran 26 miles because he had no ticket and knew the conductor would toss him off the track team. But he didn't stop on the way to play mumbly-peg, quoits, hop-scotch and the other things they now do in the Olympiads.

When he started he didn't claim the other guy beat the gun. He didn't insist that his opponents were professionals. He didn't say that the officials were biased. He didn't stop on the way to write articles for newspapers and he didn't say that he might have won if the other guy hadn't given him the elbows on the turns.

He was an athlete and he ran. If he were alive today he would be amazed to see our young men tossing cataleptic fits, hanging by their toes from telegraph wires and trying to stab each other with potato mashers.

The original idea of the Olympiads has been entirely lost in the shuffle of amateur rules and squabbles. The first Greek ran 26 miles by himself. Now we need a relay of four loafers to run 880 yards.

FILM DEPICTS AUTO PLANT ACTIVITY

Automobile owners particularly are interested in an educational film being shown in the show rooms of the Rea Seagert company tonight. The picture, considered one of the finest industrial films ever made, shows in detail how the Willys-Overland products are made. The title of the film is "The Silent Knight."

Almost a year in the process of making, the film is made up of scenes taken at both the Toledo and Pontiac plants of the Willys-Overland company and is said to be of unusual interest to both men and women buyers of automobiles. It is a comprehensive picture of what actually takes place behind the scenes of modern automobile manufacture and depicts the progress of the Knight cars step by step from the time the raw materials start out in the tedious process until the finished car is ready for the show room. Admission is free and the public is invited.

SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK SPORTS EDITOR

THIS will be the last Speaking of Sports column that will appear for two weeks, while the purveyor of same is off on the big "vacash." Your old friend, Jim Long, will be back on the job with his Sports Comment feature tomorrow and beginning next Sunday will resume his Sports Review of the Week, which has been missing for a fortnight while he has been enjoying his respite from labor in the Yellowstone Park and environs.

BEFORE we return a lot of sporting palaver will be tossed over the dam. Bill Tilden either still will be an amateur or he won't be; the inner workings of the Olympic committee will be revealed; the Pirates may crowd the Cardinals for first place; the Athletics may take the lead in the American League; the decks will be cleared for the training season of the college football squads and Jack Dempsey may even announce once more that he will come back and deny it before the ink is dry on the papers. But let somebody else worry about it—for two weeks, at least.

SPEAKING of Tilden and his amateur status, that was quite a classic remark the Tall One uncorked on his return to the United States the other day.

"I never will turn professional. I am still an amateur, regardless of what action the tennis officials take against me," quoth Bill.

Some time during his stage career, Bill must have delved into the mysteries of Black Magic. For how he will remain an amateur if the U. S. L. T. A. says he isn't one is hard to understand. Bill may say he is an amateur, but that won't make him one. But if the U. S. L. T. A. says he is not an amateur he will NOT be one. Being an amateur, or not being one is not a state of mind. It may be a disease, but never, as Bill appears to think, a state of mind.

AT THAT, if the tennis moguls should decide that Bill isn't an amateur, it will be a big moral victory for our Will. He will have the public on his side. The public knows little of the politics of the fine court pastime and cares less about them. It does recall that Bill has been the world's greatest tennis player and still remains almost that and it does not consider his sin of writing for publication as anything to condemn his soul to the lowest depths. In defeat, if defeat is to be his portion when the solemn conclave gathers next week, Bill will emerge a bigger man than his judges.

OUT of deference to the wishes of Gene Tunney that he no longer be mentioned in the news-

Germans Elated Over Showing In Olympics

BERLIN, Aug. 13.—(INS.)—The German press is jubilant over the result of the Olympic games, pointing out that German athletes captured 11 first places and 26 second and third places, thus demonstrating the breadth of athletic training in Germany instead of concentration on a few sports.

Attention is also called to the fact that France and Germany together scored a total of 118 points, compared with 114 for the United States, although the combined population of the two European countries is less.

Various views of Con O'Kelly, new heavyweight champion of Ireland, who is on his way to America to enter the eliminations to determine the successor to Gene Tunney's heavyweight championship. Ireland's Heavy Hope

CHILLY SAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

THE Pirates face a busy week as they open up with the Robins this afternoon. The Dodgers will remain here until Friday, when the very lowly Phils will be on hand. Double bills with the Quakers are scheduled for both Friday and Saturday.

It will be impossible for the Bucs to lose their grip on fifth position during the Brooklyn series. Even though the Robins sweep the series, which is somewhat unlikely, the New Yorkers could not pass the locals. And the Pirates are entering the play hopeful of establishing themselves in a firmer position.

FOLLOWING the appearance of the Phils, which will be ended Saturday, the Boston Braves will come to town and will stick around until Thursday, playing three games with the Buccaneers. Then the Giants, who are making a desperate bid for the championship, and who have just closed a remarkably successful stay at home, will appear here.

The Cubs' defeat of the Cards yesterday, which was the second in as many days, has cut the lead of the league leaders to two games. If the Giants are able to make hay while in the West, something they have not been able to accomplish in former trips through the section this year, it is highly possible that when McGraw and his clan arrive in Pittsburgh they will be at the top of the standing.

THE Pirates may also benefit by Giant victories, especially in Cincinnati and Chicago. If the Giants are able to throw off the Reds and Cubs, while the locals are winning from their opponents here, the Bushmen can climb into fourth and possibly into third position.

Following the series here with the Giants next week, the Bucs will go to Cincinnati and play two games with the Reds, then return home for three more engagements with the Phillies.

CUDEN RETAINS TITLE AS THORNBURG CHAMP

C. S. Cuden for the third successive year is club champion of the Thornburg Country Club, the reigning titleholder defeating Dr. Peter Goldman yesterday in the final. Cuden turned in a 79 in the morning and an 81 in the afternoon. Dr. Goldman had an 81 in the morning and an 84 in the afternoon.

FAVORITE SCORES 88

MISS E. LUCILLE BEJACH, favorite to succeed Mrs. L. G. Riley as women's golf champion of the municipal links, led the early finishers in the 18-hole qualifying round played today over the Schenley Park course. Miss Bejach, somewhat off her putting game owing to the poor condition of the greens, nevertheless turned in an 88 this morning to set the pace. Miss Bejach's card follows:

Out .... 6 8 6 5 3 4 4 7 5—48
In .... 4 4 4 4 3 5 5 4 7—48—88

Mrs. B. Evans and Miss Jessie Gould were six strokes behind Miss Bejach, each turning in a card of 94. The early cards follow:

Miss E. Lucille Bejach, 48-40—88; Mrs. B. Evans, 46-48—94; Miss Jessie Gould, 48-46—94; Mrs. Long, 59-50—109; Miss Iris Sleznick, 54-45—99; Miss G. Davis, 64-59—123; Mrs. Brinkman, 56-55—111; Mrs. Stevenson, 55-52—107; Mrs. Foster, 77-76—153; Mrs. Ruch, 71-60—131; Mrs. R. E. Brown, 55-54—109; Mrs. Link, 64-57—121; Mrs. Josephson, 62-47—109; Miss J. Hardesty, 61-62—123; Mrs. Tearle Irwin, 66-57—123.

Although the tournament was open to all women golfers living within the city limits whether they were affiliated with a private club or not, the field entered has kept within its own limits and most of the fair lassies participating play regularly over the Schenley layout.

Mrs. L. G. Riley, city champion for two years, who is a member of the Edgewood Country Club, is not participating this year. And, as a result, her most sincere rival of the links, Miss Bejach, is the reigning favorite to cop the big honor. Last year in the finale the pair staged the most interesting women's golf battle that has been seen in Western Pennsylvania in years.

MET IN SOUTH

Having met in the South several times last winter after that, and having split the honors, their meeting in the city championship this year had rather been anticipated. But it is not to be, and Schenley fans are somewhat disappointed, for it appears that Miss Bejach is to have things pretty much her own way, unless a dark horse, as it were, turns up.

To the winner will go the John Jay Burke trophy, to be held for one year, it being a perpetual award, while the John M. Robbins cup will be presented for perma-

Homestead Library swimming star, who, with Miss Susan Laird, of the same club, competed in the Olympic games events at Amsterdam last week. JOHNSON AND TILL READY

OSK TILL and Garfield Johnson are set for the gong in their 10-round main bout at the Duquesne Steel baseball park, Duquesne, tonight. The Rochester (N. Y.) light-heavyweight arrived in town yesterday for his battle with the local Negro flash and pronounced himself fit and confident of winning.

Promoter Jules Beck predicts the largest gate he ever has had at his club, with two big fellows in action. The regular fans have been stirred and Johnson will have the solid support of the Negro followers of boxing in the community.

Till comes here with victories over Jock Malone, Benny Burns, Homer Robertson, Augie Ratner, Sunny Jim Williams, Charley Arthur, Lew Chester, and other good ones, while Johnson has boxed George Gemas, Maxie Rosenbloom, Frankie Monahan, Kid Crutchfield and Tut Jackson, among others since he came here from Seattle last winter. He has dropped only one decision, and that to the clever Rosenbloom.

FOUR PRELIMINARIES

Four six-round preliminaries back up the exceptional main event. Dick Gibbons, of Duquesne, and Charley Brodd, of McKeesport, heavyweight rivals, will box the semi-final; Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, and Mule Brown, of Duquesne, Negro welters, the third bout; Willie Cunningham, of Buffalo, and formerly of Hazelwood, and Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, the second bout, at 126 pounds, and Young Angelo, of Swissvale, and Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, the opener at 126 pounds.

The first bout is scheduled for 8:30 daylight saving time.

Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, meets an old rival in the person of Dick O'Leary, of Scranton, formerly Jackie Britton, in the 10-round windup at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, tonight. Dunn formerly lived in Scranton and boxed Britton twice for the bantamweight championship of the hard coal region and since then both have graduated into the featherweight class. Andy Tomosky, of Wilmerding, boxes Carl Cavelli, of Canton, O., in the semi-final and Romeo Pacelli meets Bobby Belford in another six-round preliminary, while Harry Lebo engages Tom O'Leary and Tony Icone will oppose Roy Minteer in the two four-round bouts.

DEMARCO AT PATERSON

Cuddy DeMarco, McKeesport lightweight, boxes Whitey Shortway, of Bayonne, N. J., at Paterson, N. J., tonight. Buster Brown, of Baltimore, boxes Johnny Datto at Cincinnati, and Shifty Dando meets Tiger Kid Purvis at Columbus.

The Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. has a card of amateur bouts listed for its open-air quarters on the North Side tonight.

The VARSITY COLUMN

by Jess M. Carver

THE Duquesne University Dukes will be the first college football team to make use of Pitt's Stadium. The Dukes, through Graduate Manager Holohan have completed arrangements for the use of the Stadium on November 17, and will meet Tommy Holleran's Theil College eleven there on that day in a Conference game. Pitt will be playing Nebraska at Lincoln the same afternoon.

In 1929, Tech is to make use of the Stadium for some of its games while the Panthers are out of town.

It will be a welcome relief to see the Dukes play football mid real surroundings. The Dukes hardly look like a real college football team when they play up on the Bluff. No team would. It is tough to play good football and keep out of the crowd at the same time. I've seen the Dukes in action on other fields outside of the city and they hardly resemble the team that plays on that terrible Bluff field.

IT IS no fault of the Dukes that they have been forced to play their home games on the Bluff. The Duquesne Fathers would like nothing better than to have had a real athletic plant in the past. They are aiming in that direction at present. But poor teams draw poor gates, and it costs dough to play at Forbes Field. When Duquesne was founded and the grounds located where they are, football wasn't the important part of collegiate life that it is now, and no thought was given to the athletic department.

Pitt alumni are pleased over the evident intent on the part of those in charge of athletics at the University to sing a tune of optimism with regards to the coming football season. It was feared that there might be a tendency on the part of some of the school's new heads to sing the blues, inasmuch as the football losses by graduation were heavy and that the outlook is not as bright as it was a year ago. However, few there were who looked forward to an unbeaten team last August.

IT WOULD have been the very worst thing that could have happened had Coach Sutherland, Athletic Director Harrison and the rest of the Pitt family advanced dismal hopes for the coming team. It would have killed the gates, and as the Stadium is still unpaid for, gates, and good gates, are what Pitt needs. Knock a team in advance and you'll have the public eyeing askance the prospect of laying the long green on the line and turning out in force at the games. Pittsburgh football fans like winners, and will pay to see 'em. But they won't pay to see a team heralded as a losing proposition.

Prospects at Pitt are not so

CORSAIRS ANXIOUS TO END SLUMP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

THE Pirates this afternoon will endeavor to shake off their worst batting slump of the season at the expense of the Dodgers who are our guests for four days. The ability to swat .300 collectively has nothing in common with the accomplishments of the Buccos offensive in the past few days. Our boys have made one run in the last 25 innings, and as a result of having dropped two unusual slab duels.

Remy Kremer is all set to challenge the Robins in their first clash with the Oaklanders. Frenchy threw the Flatbush gang back a few days ago in their home grounds. On that occasion the big righthander was in the stride that has made him one of the greatest pitchers in the game in the past four seasons. If he is in the same form this afternoon Uncle Robbie's batters are not likely to have a very pleasant time.

Glenn Wright probably will ride the bench today owing to the spike wound sustained when he collided with Freddie Brickell in Saturday's interesting frolic. Glenn came through with a circus catch on his daring bit of fielding, but he had to leave the game as a result of the spike of Brickell, who stepped on Glenn as he tried to get the rocket. Dick Bartell will be in the shortfield provided Wright is unable to go to his post.

CAN'T DOPE SLUMP.

The Pittsburgh players cannot understand their protracted batting slump, but every man on the club realizes they were up against some clever, smart twirling as they took successive defeats from Clarence Mitchell and Red Lucas. Mitchell did not have a lot of stuff, outside of his elusive spitball, but Clarence had fine control and he worked on the weaknesses of the various swingers.

Fred Fussell worked the 12 sweltering rounds against Mitchell with only two days of rest. The Pirates made Fussell just one tally in Brooklyn in his previous joust and one was the best they could get him in 12 innings on Friday.

Burleigh Grimes had even worse luck on Saturday, as he tried to record his twenty-first victory. The WORLD SERIES DATES SET

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—The world series of 1928 will begin on Wednesday, October 3, at the grounds of the club winning the American League championship, the Associated Press has learned. The opening game automatically fell to the American League this year under the alternation plan formulated by the late Charles H. Ebbets, and the dates for the series were agreed upon last week by the officials concerned.

The schedule agreed upon calls for games in the American League park on Wednesday and Thursday, October 3 and 4, with a day for travel intervening before the battle is resumed in John Heydler's sector "If a western club wins the National League pennant," if two eastern teams play for the champion, the series will begin on October 3 and continue with out a break until one team has won the requisite four games.

The breaks of the schedule under the Ebbets plan this year are such that the Athletics, the only pennant possibility unable to play Sunday games at home, would not draw a Sabbath date in any of the several charts likely to be ordered.

papers and that he no longer be asked to pose for his photograph, now that he has retired to private life, we refrain herewith from writing anything about him. Wouldn't it be a great shock to some people, though, if the newspapers of the land should take Gene at his word and neglect to cover his impending wedding with all of those society swells around and the costly gifts, etc.?

WHAT a pity it is that the Pirates managed to keep concealed so long the good baseball they have been flashing since they went East on their recent trip! Playing that brand of the so-called national pastime from the opening bell they would be out so far in front in the pennant scramble that President John Heydler would have to arrange for a split season to revive interest in the race. As matters stand now, they've got to get a double break to wind up on top. They've got to continue vith their finest stuff and hope at the same time that somebody up front drops dead or a couple of clubs figure in train wrecks or the season is extended to Christmas, thereby getting even with the soccer season, which is so long that no one but our Tom Birks ever has been able to figure out when one ends and the new one begins.

STRIBLING, M'TIGUE REMATCHED FOR BOUT

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Aug. 13.—Willie (Young) Stribling, Georgia heavyweight title contender, and Mike McTigue, former light heavyweight champion, will renew their ring feud in this city on Tuesday night, August 21, when they will clash in a 10-round battle.

McTigue first met Stribling in Macon, Ga., two years ago and after a hard fought battle, which Stribling apparently won on points, Referee Harry Ertle called the bout a draw and the fans started a riot. Ertle had to be assisted from the ring by a cordon of police and was taken to the railroad station for immediate departure.

Recently McTigue fought a draw with Armand Emanuel and in a later bout with Matt Adgie, of Philadelphia, was apparently on his way to an easy victory when he was disqualified on a foul. Stribling is credited with 107 knockouts, a world's record, and he is now bidding for the former crown held by Gene Tunney.

quality of ball pitched by Grimes would win nine games out of 10, but Lucas made the home batters appear easy; the best Grimes could hope for—at least for nine rounds—was a draw. Wright's error led to the only run of the battle.

Yesterday the Buccos journeyed to Akron, O., where they defeated the General Tires of that place by a 4-to-1 score. Three runs in the second inning provided the margin of victory. Sparky Adams' double was the big punch of the inning, though Traynor singled to start the frame. Another run was added in the seventh.

Seek End Of A.A.U. Rule

By DAVIS J. WALSH.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—In a few chosen words not exceeding 100,000, Brig. Gen. Palmer A. Pierce, professor of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, today sounded what he intended to be the valedictory of A. A. U. domination of amateur athletics, to be general, and American Olympic competition, to be specific.

The rule of the favored few is about over, he intimated, and while he declined to lay the blame for American track failures directly at their door until he could learn the particulars, he somehow neglected to indicate that he felt these failures would injure his case.

"The time when a few men in the East can sit down in an office on lower Broadway and run the country's athletics by divine right is past long since," the general declared. "That was a condition that did very well in the old days when most of the competitors were in the East and, therefore, received direct attention and supervision. Times have changed greatly since then, but A. A. U. goes right on dominating under the old rules and regulations."

It was Gen. Pierce's expressed thought that the A. A. U. having had its chance and failed, the time was ripe for a supervisory revolution that would unseat the "archaic" form of government now in the saddle and install a few new faces with new and perhaps better ideas.

Both the men and their ideas would come from the colleges, the latter being almost nationally represented in Pierce's organization. The colleges supply 90 per cent of the athletes who comprise the American Olympic track and field team, yet have little or nothing to say about the activites of that team, he stated.

Among other things, he felt that the selection of the Olympic coaches should have been in the hands of a more widely representative coterie. In brief, he intimated that star chamber proceedings were in order when these nominatons were acted upon.

"It is not my intention to offer criticism of what happened in Amsterdam until the fact is established that criticism is deserved," he added. "However, I am well acquinted with what happened here before the team sailed. The colleges should have had something to say about the men who were placed in charge of their athletes. They had absolutely nothing to say about it, although we were much more adequately represented in the Olympic Association this year than ever before.

"I am not complaining about the men who were selected. They are good men, as their records prove. However, I think an old hand like Stagg's could have been used to advantage in Amsterdam. He is recognized everywhere as a great handler of men and our Olympic teams need plenty of handling.

"The fact that the coaches were named without what we would term representative consideration is the source of our objection. One of our representatives in the Olympic Association never attended a meeting because he never was notified to attend. He wired the first time to say he couldn't be there and after that he was ignored. So were seven of the eight members of the team selection committee in one notable instance.

"No, the few men of the East had to rule and now the end of that rule can't be far off. A few more failures and it might end automatically."

"MY PERFECT FIGHT"

GENE TUNNEY

TOM HEENEY

GENE TUNNEY'S OWN STORY OF HIS FAREWELL RING APPEARANCE AGAINST TOM HEENEY.

by Gene Tunney

RETIRED HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION.

(COPYRIGHT, 1928, KING FEATURES SYNDICATE, INC.)

CHAPTER IX.

THE eleventh round in the Yankee Stadium placed me in the most difficult position I ever have faced in a ring.

Tom Heeney, gamest of foemen, rushed from his corner in a last despairing effort to win a contest that had been lost beyond recall for fully four rounds.

Less than a minute before he had laid quivering under the lower rope at the side of the ring, apparently unconscious and finished for the evening. Heroic work in the minute rest had brought him to the point where he could answer the bell for the eleventh round.

More than anything else in that match I wanted to score a knockout, to prove definitely that I could punch as well as box. It hardly could be looked upon as a selfish desire on my part. For months I had known this match was to be my last engagement in the ring. I wanted to leave deeply imbedded on the profession that gave me wealth, health and a multitude of fine friends and associations the impression of power and ability that I felt in me. In leaving the ring I wished to do so with the memory fresh in my mind and the minds of boxing enthusiasts of the greatest exhibition of my career.

FOE WINS RESPECT

Before me, struggling against odds that would have kept any other man rooted to his chair when the bell sounded to open the final round, was an opponent who had won my respect and admiration. I knew that his strength was gone, that he barely knew where he was. I knew that instinct alone and the fighting heart of a great athlete carried him up from his chair and into the center of the ring.

Unfortunately there is no such thing as pity within the four walls of rope after the bell has sounded to open a round. The battle then belongs to the spectators. They have paid to see two athletes meet in a contest that is not terminated until one or the other is unable to continue or until the referee raises one hand at the close in token of victory. Two boxers are carrying out a contract without regard for personal feeling or inclination.

Every punch I directed at the challenger in that final round carried the power and intent to knock out Heeney. Under the storm of blows, his strength seeping away so quickly that I could feel him failing in my arms at times. Heeney rapidly approached a state of collapse. Time and again I smashed punches accurately to vital spots, but he would not go down. Blows that might have knocked him out missed, too, because of my anxiety to end the contest with one punch.

ALL IN AT FINISH

Few of the spectators at the match realize that Heeney never landed a blow in the eleventh round. After his first wild dash from the corner, when the punches he did throw went wild or banged harmlessly against my guard, he saved his stamina the better to resist punishment. He felt like a human punching bag in front of me. I was sick of the task when Referee Ed Forbes finally stepped between us and called a halt. I was glad it was over.

There have been thoughts in some minds, perhaps, that Heeney could have continued. Only eight seconds were left in the round. Even though Tom had fallen, the bell again would have saved him from a knockout. To continue such a hopeless match, to allow a man to risk permanent injury because he does not know when he is beaten would have been cruel and inhuman. Forbes did the proper thing.

When the referee stopped the contest my first thought was of Heeney's condition. I threw one arm around his shoulders and started to help him across the ring to his own corner. His seconds rushed across to take him away.

GIVES GENE A THRILL

Dimly realizing what had happened, Heeney turned his blood-smeared face to me and gave me one of the greatest thrills I experienced in 10 years of boxing.

"God bless you, Gene," he said. "You're a great champion." Then he stumbled away.

As he turned, I thanked him, told him what a courageous fight I thought he had made and wished him all the luck in the world in the future. A few words over the radio and I left the ring for the last time, never to enter it again.

A number of the women at Schenley are taking time out today to sell a few tickets for the big testimonial dinner to be given Pittsburgh's National Public Links team on the clubhouse porch on Thursday night. Official Pittsburgh will be represented by City Council, which will present Carl F. Kauffmann, Police Lieut. Sam Graham, Carl J. Lunden, Dick Wessell, M. H. Boschert and Mike Galido with material honors in reward for their fine work.

CLUB TEAMS DRILL

Among the private clubs, teams of eight are drilling for the first annual Western Pennsylvania Golf Association Club team championship, the first round of which is to be played over four courses on Wednesday of this week. Sixteen clubs will be represented in the first matches, which are to be played at the Pittsburgh Field Club, Fox Chapel Golf Club, South Hills Country Club and Westmoreland Country Club.

The four winners of the competition will meet at a later date in the championship proper. Inasmuch as this is the first attempt to put such a team league affair over, it is expected to be a distinct success.

On Friday, Charley Manning, esteemed pro at Shannopin, and J. Lang Hukill, Jr., one of that club's star amateurs, will play an exhibition match with Johnny Farrell, National open champion, and Gene Sarazen, former National open, P. G. A. titlist and local pro, over the Shannopin Country Club links in Ben Avon Heights. The contest, 18 holes best ball, will begin at 2 o'clock.

LOCALS AT BEDFORD

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., Aug. 13.—A number of Pittsburgh district professionals are participating here today over the Bedford Springs Hotel links in a 36-hole medal play competition, following yesterday's pro-amateur tourney.

Tomorrow Pittsburgh will have a real representation in the qualifying round of the annual Bedford Springs Amateur Invitation tournament, which will continue thereafter at match play until the final is reached on Friday.

Threaten Soccer Peace

By TOM BIRKS.

THE opening guns of the 1928-1929 soccer football season were fired Saturday and Sunday, when meetings at the Hotel Henry and the offices of the American Soccer League were held for the formation of a Saturday and Sunday loop. While nothing of a definite nature was accomplished in either case, it was the mere formality of getting the season under way. Reorganization has started with a bang.

All the summer plans of the Western Pennsylvania Soccer Football Association to bring about a harmonious season were scattered to the winds during the week when teams in the district found themselves with notices from two bodies in the district regarding annual meetings.

It was thought that the recognition of the present body by the United States Football Association had finally settled any question regarding the status of soccer in this district, but evidently there are still some beguiled soccer men crying for a place in the sun, and are willing to get it at any price.

The circulr letter under the stationery of the West Penn Footall Association gave all teams in the district notice that the meeting of the West Penn Footall Association had been held and that the following officers had been elected: John Campbell, Swissvale, president; Henry Bierman, Federal, Pa., vice president; J. Platts, Heidelberg, treasurer; and James Gaylor, Swissvale, secretary.

Just how this association expects to operate is beyond the writer. Henry Bierman is connected with the Chartiers Valley League and it is an assured fact that an organiation of that kind is not going to play outlaw soccer.

All soccer men know that it is an impossibility to have two state associations. One has already been acknowledged by the United States Football Association, and its delegates seated at the national convention. Now after many months' hard work by the present incumbents an effort is made to create an issue in the minds of the managers in the district, and the movement is doomed to failure.

The formation of the Saturday League is by the same men. This league is welcome in the district. There is room for all leagues that can be formed, but when that league is formed its rules and by-laws will have to be approved by the rules committee of the Western Pennsylvania Footbal Association, of which Pat Donohue is secretary.

And when the managers know the status of the newly formed body its death should be natural. A paragraph of the circular letter signed by James Gaylor, states "that the above named officers have been duly elected by legal representatives of the various leagues." Neither Campbell, Platts or Gaylor represent any league, and if Bierman was representing the Chartiers Valley organization that loop should convene immediately and ask why he was not at the meeting of organized football?

At the Sunday meeting, Heidelberg, National Tube, Harmarville, Westinghouse, and the Corinthians were represented. After a little discussion and a few remarks by President Harry Fairfield, the meeting adjourned until August 26.

Wednesday evening the District League will have its initial meeting. All of last season's members are invited to be present.

dull, even when it is considered that Coach Sutherland has lost many good men. The Panthers should have a good line, possibly not as powerful as the 1927 wall, but one not to be sneered at. DeMolia is back, and Mike Getto, Tully, Klinger, Crissinger and Barnes are capable gridders.

The attack may lack a Welch or a Hagan and is sure to miss a Booth, but there have been squads with far less promise turn out at Pitt in the past. Guarino and Donchess are fine ends. Montgomery and Capt. Alec Fox are good guards and Edwards, Wilps, Uansa and Parkinson good backs. Jim Rooney is back in school and eligible for play.

Dearest Money in Years Hits Stocks, Trade Better.

By B. C. FORBES

BUSINESS and securities are not moving in the same direction. Business is going forward moderately; securities last week receded moderately.

The prospects for trade also are better than the prospects for securities, in the writer's opinion, mainly because of monetary conditions.

THE improvement in general activity is not very pronounced. Unevenness still prevails.

The motor industry is the star performer. The recent rate of activity suggests that the output for 1928 will show a very substantial increase over last year but will probably fall considerably short of the banner year 1926. The strongest companies are breaking all their previous records in output and in most cases net earnings are at new levels. Some of the weaker companies are falling ominously behind.

While steel shipments are being made faster than new orders are booked, the status of the industry today is distinctly better than a year ago. Prices are not yet, however, satisfactory to producers. The building industry continues to confound the prophets of pessimism. A decline in homebuilding is being offset by the construction of commercial, industrial and other large structures. The solution of both production and price problems, enormous consumption, which promises to expand still further, doubtless will, by and by, cure the situation.

Retail trade reports are a little more cheerful. The most notable gains are recorded by large scale operations — mail order houses and chains of stores.

YET it must not be overlooked that railway traffic is again falling below last year and 1926.

The week brought rather stormy agricultural developments. Government estimates of bumper crops of wheat, corn, barley, oats, potatoes, apples, etc., precipitated heavy selling. Wheat and corn tumbled to the lowest quotations not only for this season, but for several seasons. The government likewise forecast a larger crop (14,291,000 bales) of cotton than the trade had anticipated, and prices correctly fell. On the other hand, farm animals are doing unusually well, with hogs—an important item—touching a new peak.

The annual discussion as to whether American farmers, as a whole, are better off when crops are abundant and prices low or when crops are light and prices high is again under way. But from the point of view of the non-agricultural public, the railroads, and many lines of manufacture, bumper crops are a blessing. The indications of generous harvests are deeply encouraging from the national point of view.

COMPLETION of the Studebaker-Pierce Arrow merger, closely following the Chrysler-Dodge merger, has, I understand, quickened negotiations for other mergers in the motor field. The billion dollar New York City utility merger is but one of a number planned in the utility field, and the outlook is that mergers of all kinds—industrial, railway, utility, banking, merchandising—may have a stimulating influence on speculation in coming months.

MONEY has become still dearer. Time funds have been marked up to 6½ per cent, the highest charged in years. Call money closed the week at 8 per cent. Equally significant was another advance in bankers' acceptances, this time to 5¼@5½ per cent. Brokers' loans again increased, $14,488,000.

Outside money is still pouring into Wall Street in increasing volume for rental by the day, but New York bankers are cutting down their own loans. The regulations designed to curb lending for non-banking interests do not go into effect until September 1. The truth is that responsible bankers are distinctly concerned over current conditions in the money market and over what may happen when agricultural and commercial demands shortly undergo seasonal expansion. There is now a strong aversion to tying up funds for months ahead.

WHETHER dearer money will retard trade to any appreciable extent is not certain. But that it is having and will have an effect upon stock market and the bond market is beyond question. As a matter of fact, bonds have already suffered unusually severely, and in order to get rid of undigested offerings, more attractive terms are now being made by underwriters and other investment houses. Government and other high grade bonds again sagged last week.

Bull manipulators of favorite stocks have not abandoned their activities. But they were unable to make any headway last week. The average quotation on the stock exchange closed the week slightly lower. Dullness was the rule among the great majority of issues. The public are neither selling or buying on any considerable scale. The waiting attitude rules.

Politics have not yet become a factor in Wall Street. That they will do so sooner or later can be taken for granted.

HIGHER MONEY RESTRICTS MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—High money rates continued to have a restrictive effect on trading in today's stock market. Marking up of the call money renewal rate to 7½ per cent, the highest since the first of the month, brought a flurry of selling which carried a score of issues down 1 to 6 points, but buying support was quickly provided, and the market was headed upward again by early afternoon.

Banks called $15,000,000 in loans during the morning. Time money was 6½ per cent bid for all dates with a somewhat more plentiful supply coming in at that figure. Prime commercial and bankers' acceptance rates held firm. Sale of sterling around the low level for the year aroused hopes in speculative quarters of a return flow of gold from England in the near future, but leading bankers were not quite so optimistic.

Outside the stock and money markets, chief speculative interest centered in a further break of $2.50 a bale in cotton, part of which was recovered.

In the morning selling movement, National Tea was driven down 6 points, Cluett Peabody 6½ to a new low at 70, Lehigh Valley 5, DuPont 4 and Montgomery Ward and Case Threshing 3 each. In the subsequent recovery, New York Traction and Railroad shares were prominent. Buying of the rails centered largely in the grain carriers. Substantial gains also were recorded by such specialties as Coty, Murray Corporation, International Silver and Pittsburgh Coal, all up 3 points or more.

Chrysler ran into heavy selling after its initial spurt of 4 points, but offerings were all absorbed and the price held above Saturday's closing price. General Motors was again under pressure for a time, but likewise received good buying support.

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 13.—Three Pittsburghers were slightly injured when their automobile turned over after being struck by a hit-and-run driver on the Lincoln Highway near here yesterday. In the machine were Emanuel Lipidus and wife, Betty Lipidus, of 1334 Julius street, and Albert Miller, of the Ritz apartments, Pittsburgh.

When W. J. Porter, of 806 Glen avenue, Wilkinsburg, lost control of his automobile and upset in a ditch, nine miles east of Greensburg, his wife suffered injuries to her back and head.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 17 to 27 points and soon showed net losses of 43 to 52 points under continuation of last week's selling movement.

Selling orders appeared to be reaching here from all directions with the South and Wall street among the sellers on the decline which quickly extended to 18.11c for December contracts. Rallies of a few points followed on covering, while a little trade-buying also was reported, but the over-Sunday storm news from Eastern belt sections evidently attracted little interest, while the weather elsewhere in the South was considered favorable with selling also promoted by relatively easy cables.

Prices were within 3 or 4 points of the lowest at the end of the first hour.

Private cables said there had been continental and Bombay selling in Liverpool, with Manchester unsettled, as cloth and yarn buyers were holding off.

The volume of business tapered off after the early break and prices became steadier on covering. December contracts rallied to 18.33c and March to 18.31c, or about 12 to 16 points from the low level of the morning, and within 30 points of Saturday's close. The market was quiet at midday at prices holding within two or three points of these figures.

Mrs. Leslie's skull was fractured. Leslie suffered concussion of the brain and the boy was badly bruised and may be injured internally. Mrs. Leslie was near death today.

Dares 150-Foot Oil Flame in Asbestos Suit

WINK, Tex., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Protected by an asbestos suit, Tex Thornton, veteran oil well fire-fighter, yesterday dashed through flames which licked upward 150 feet and "shot" a well on the Roxana lease, about a mile from here in the Winkler field, in an attempt to check a spectacular fire which has been raging four days.

The shooting of the well did not extinguish the blaze and Thornton planned to press 15 steam boilers into service.

The well, which has been flowing 8,000 barrels daily, was set aflame by lightning, brilliantly illuminating the skies. The fire can be seen for 15 or 20 miles.

Although damage caused by the fire was unestimated, it was known to total thousands of dollars.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Cautious Trading Attitude.

Action of the general market today reflected the extremely cautious attitude of the trading element which fears an ultimate adjustment to stock yields to meet the changed conditions in the money market where time loans are bringing 6½ per cent, the highest rate in several years. Saturday's upturn in Steel common was continued today but the traders did not appear inclined to follow the move. Interest in the entire market petered out around noon following the establishment of a 7½ per cent opening rate on call loans. Call loans carried over the week-end at 8 per cent for the first time since 1921. While the Treasury has some financing to do shortly, some observers are doubtful that interest rates can be forced back to lower levels despite the fact that many think efforts will be made to work up a better investment feeling. The usual accompaniment of a Treasury operation is an easy money market and a strong stock market. Observers scanned the market closely for some indication of "Hoover Speech" influence, but there was nothing to show that the list had been affected one way or the other by the candidate's masterful presentation of his party's cause.

Tidal Osage Revenue Shrinks.

Tidal Osage Oil Company's statement for the six months ended June 30 reflects the sharp decrease in crude output as compared with the corresponding period last year. Most of the company's production is in the Seminole area, Oklahoma. For the six months ended June 30, Tidal produced 1,146,385 barrels of oil, as compared with 2,723,763 barrels in the first six months of 1927. Net income before depletion, depreciation and canceled leases was $1,340,600 for the half year as against $3,612,695 for the first half of 1927. After depletion, depreciation, canceled leases and estimated tax, the earnings were $302,105, from which a surplus adjustment deduction of $110,525 was made, leaving a balance of $191,579 applicable to dividends. While this amount did not meet the requirement, the company maintained its regular payments of 50 cents quarterly, which necessitated withdrawal of $439,739 from the surplus account. Despite the sharp decrease in oil revenues, the company's balance sheet shows an excellent financial condition with current assets of $2,528,506 against current liabilities of $130,928, a ratio of about 18 to 1.

July Retail Trade.

Back of the recent advance in drygoods shares is the fact that July was an unusually good month with the weather right for sales of summer goods and a large number of visitors to the great cities. Federal Reserve System reported July retail trade larger in July this year than last, with sales of 478 department stores 3 per cent greater for the month than that of 1927. As compared with June, however, sales were seasonably smaller, but the declines were smaller than usual. After adjustment for seasonal variations trade in July was sustained at a higher level than in June. Philadelphia and Cleveland were the only Federal Reserve districts that reported a smaller department store business in July of this year than last year. Largest sales increases were in St. Louis, with 7.4 per cent over last year, and Minneapolis, with 6.7 per cent. Declines of 1.2 per cent in Philadelphia and 2.8 per cent in Cleveland were reported.

Phillips Petroleum Company.

The Phillips Petroleum Company entered the last half of the year in an excellent position to take advantage of the general improvement in the oil situation which has been evidenced recently in a small adjustment in the posted Mid-Continent crude market and in the greatly improved wholesale and retail gasoline price structure. The adjustment on July 26, represented an average increased price of 12½ cents per barrell on company's production, while natural gasoline prices have advanced 110 per cent since January of this year and refinery gasoline prices have had over 57 per cent increase. Although in the past generally known as a producing concern, Phillips is now fast developing into an integrated company, with its own producing, transporting, refining and marketing facilities, and with a great diversity of other interests which will insure a more stable earning power.

Credit Easier in Southwest.

Reports from Kansas City say that the credit situation in the Southwest is a little easier due largely to the fact that the wheat harvest has been completed and the movement to terminal markets, while still on a liberal scale, has definitely passed the peak. Youngstown Operations.

Recent high rates of iron and steel production in the Youngstown area are being sustained and advances are noted in some instances. Operations are at 80 per cent of capacity. A new high record for this season has been established this week in activity of independent open-hearth furnaces, with 43 out of 53 melting. Large stocks of cold iron are being cleared away, as consumption runs ahead of production.

Sheet Prices Raised.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company has advanced sheet steel $2 a ton for the fourth quarter, making new prices 4 cents for 20-guage auto body stock, which has been the nominal level; 2.75c for black sheets one pass; 3.60c for galvanized; 2c for 10-gauge blue annealed under 45 inches in width, and 2.10c for blue annealed over 45 inches in width. The advance is in line with the general advance in this market owing to steadily mounting demand. Prices are Pittsburgh base quotations, and the usual differentials are observed for Gary and Birmingham. Youngstown Sheet and Tube, on October 1, will cut its discount on sheet payments to ½ of 1 per cent for 10 days. Net cash in 30 days on mill invoice will be required.

Biscuit Stocks Steady.

The shares of the principal biscuit companies were fairly active again today, but the sharply rising tendency noted at the end of the week was not again in evidence. Merger reports are heard again, but in general the expectation of a bountiful grain crop this year was held to be responsible for the advances. Although grain prices may go lower, such a movement is not duplicated to any appreciable extent in the biscuit field, and in any case it follows the curve of commodity prices only at a distance. Cheaper raw materials will naturally result in increased profits, and it is apparently on the supposition that this will be the case this year that buying of biscuit stocks has developed recently. Loose-Wiles has been one of the strong features. The stock was purchased by a prominent house which has been active recently in Montgomery-Ward, Continental Can, Chrysler and other leaders. This firm contends that the tendency of the present discriminating market to discover investment merit of important companies in second position in their industries has been bringing this company to the fore in a manner similar to the rise in the stocks previously mentioned.

New York Utilities.

Since formal approval has been given to the combination of Consolidated Gas and Brooklyn Edison, old-time rumors that the new company will acquire other utility companies in the New York Metropolitan area have again been revived. In connection with these reports, practically all of the gas and electric companies operating in Brooklyn are mentioned, together with the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey.

Dodge-Chrysler Bonds.

A change of considerable importance has been made in the indenture covering the Dodge bonds. These 6 per cent bonds maturing in 1940 and callable at 110 are currently selling around 97. They now have the backing of the Chrysler Corporation and the new amendment to the indenture provides for their conversion into Chrysler stock at prices ranging from $250 to $350 a share. While the price appears rather high at this time, holders of the bonds have long-term call on the stock and it is said that there are many people who would pay "real money" for a five or ten-year call on Chrysler at $250 a share.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—The raw sugar market was firmer early today and prices advanced 1-32c to the basis of 4.14c for spots, duty paid. Sales reported included 30,000 bags of Cuban and 28,000 bags of Porto Rican for August shipment to local refiners at the quoted price.

The raw sugar futures market opened unchanged to 2 points higher on covering and trade buying encouraged by the firmer spot market and the steadiness of London. Offerings were light, and following the call prices made additional gains, and at midday were 3 to 4 points over the close of last week.

No changes were reported in refined sugar, with a good withdrawal demand. Prices were listed at 5.55c for fine granulated by all refiners.

PITTSBURGH COAL MOVES HIGHER IN MARKETS

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

Bright Prospects for Steel Profits for Present Quarter. Prices Stabilized Saving in Coal Cost.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE earnings of most steel companies in the present quarter are expected to be good. Nearly half of the three-month period has passed with ingot production averaging well around the 75-per cent level. More important than this has been the stabilization of prices. Although contracts were made for the bulk of third quarter requirements of bars, plates and shapes, at $1.85 a hundred pounds, the minimum on current orders is $1.90. Price cutting in the principal lines has been brought to an end. This year has seen a steady improvement in the prices actually realized on shipments.

ANOTHER factor in the improvement of earnings this year has been lower coal costs. In 1927 most steel producers made large investments in coal reserves to guard against the strike. The storage of coal is expensive. It added about $1 a ton to the production costs of one steelmaker. These abnormal expenses have come to an end. The steel companies which formally operated union mines have changed these to a non-union basis which will make possible a further reduction in costs.

THE reduction in unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation during July of 66,082 tons was generally expected. It does not forecast any slackening in the actual production of steel. The rush to buy before the boosting of prices caused a sharp upturn during June and the filling of these contracts and reduction in unfilled tonnage will take place throughout the present quarter.

A GOOD rate of automobile production has contributed to steel mill activity. Large orders for line pipe and some improvement in activity in the oil fields, particularly in California and in the Seminole field, have helped the pipe makers.

AFTER dropping to $5 a ton during 1927 the price of bars, plates and shapes has regained $3 a ton. In an industry with a narrow margin of profit such an improvement bulks large in the return to common stockholders.

PRICES of coal remain low. The industry has been optimistic about business in the latter part of the summer but there are no definite signs of improvement visible so far. Except for the Pittsburgh Coal Company, which has the advantage of extensive dock facilities, there has been little lake cargo coal buying placed here. The West Virginia producers also complain of lack or orders.

THE last two months have been dull from the standpoint of local financing. The offering of Suburban Electric Development stock which took place nearly a month ago was the last local issue of any size. The Reymer Brothers financing is still being deferred and there are few other issues under negotiation.

LOWER bond prices have left many of the bond houses throughout the country with inventories on their shelves which are difficult to move. Larger bond yields are costing Allegheny county money. The proposed issue of bonds will be brought out at 4¼ per cent instead of 4 per cent, as was originally proposed.

WINDOW glass is moving in fairly good volume. A recent advance in prices stimulated buying and tended to reduce stocks. The plate glass makers are enjoying active demand from the automobile makers.

THERE is a more general tone of optimism to the business outlook than has been apparent previously this year.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—The bond market opened the week with trading dull and price movements narrow and irregular. There was little to encourage an improvement, the credit situation, upon which the future of the market is said largely to depend, showing no evidence of easing. In fact, it showed a firming tendency, with banks calling upwards of $15,000,000 in loans.

National Dairy Products 5¼s were among the more active industrial issues, gaining fractionally on buying encouraged by an improved earings report. Dodge Bros. 6s were in demand at slightly higher levels. Container Corporation 5s, Philips Petrolemu 5¼s, Certain-Teed 5½s and Sinclair Crude 5½s were under pressure.

Some rails were a bit firmer, among them the St. Paul issues, but most registered declines at noon.

The foreign list was inclined to heaviness. British United Kingdom 5½s sagged and Republic of Chile 6s dropped more than a point to a new low at 92½.

U. S. government obligations were neglected in early trading.

Public offering is expected shortly of $20,000,000 Commonwealth Subsidiary Corporation 5½ per cent 20-year gold debentures. Proceeds will be used for financing investments of Commonwealth Edison, the parent company, in enterprises aside from its electrical supply business.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

POISONED FOOD KILLS THIRD

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—A third death attributed to poison among residents of a North Side apartment hotel was under investigation today while a fourth victim remained in a critical condition.

The third to die was Mrs. Catherine Magliano, 25.

Her husband, Joseph, died Thursday and Miss Alma Lee, a nurse, Saturday. Miss Jennie Mathiesen, another nurse, is in a serious condition.

All four were stricken last Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Magliano were not acquainted with the nurses. They had not eaten of the same food.

An analytical investigation being made will require at least a week, the coroner's chemist said.

No other residents of the building were stricken. Shops in the neighborhood were investigated, but no trace of poisoned food was found.

PGH. MOTORIST HITS MAN, 78

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 13.—(AP.)—One person was killed, one critically hurt and several others less seriously injured in automobile accidents in this vicinity over the week-end.

William Floyd Holloran, Jr., 14, was crushed to death when he fell from the running board under the wheels of a truck driven by his uncle, Calvin McIlvane, Washington. The accident occurred at Sycamore.

Benjamin Obley, 78, of West Newton, was probably fatally hurt when struck by a car driven by J. W. Prescott, 1826 West Liberty avenue, Pittsburgh, at Amity. Physicians said he may die.

WESTERN GIRLS SEEK FOREST RANGERS' JOBS

TACOMA, Wash.—Forty girls have applied at the district forester's office for jobs as rangers and lookout observers during the summer. More than half of the them have experienced the hard life of mountaineering and were born and reared in the forests; most of the others are city girls, who expressed a desire for a lookout place high above valleys, especially if the station boasted a telescope, a garden spot, spring water, radio and telephone.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Trading on the curb market was restricted and irregular today, as there were no signs of any easing of the credit tension which developed last week. While a few industrials were pushed up, the general trend was downward.

Auburn Auto went ahead 6 points, and Bendix "B" touched a new high on a 5-cent advance in the generally steady automotive group. Franklin Manufacturing touched a new high in a small gain. Adams Mills was a strong point, gaining more than 3 points in good demand. A. G. Spaulding shot up more than 20 points in a few sales. Deere and Adolph Gobel dropped 2 and 4 points, respectively, and National Rubber Machinery was under pressure. United Biscuit "A" was steady while the "B" shares sagged.

The amusement shares, a feature of last week, quickly turned heavy. Warner brothers made a small gain which was wiped out in heavy liquidation. Fox Theater "A" was in supply, and Columbia Graphophone sagged after an early gain. Mines were generally soft, although Noranda rallied about a point in heavy buying. Zenith was a strong point in the sagging Radio group, advancing more than 3 points. Chain stores were irregular, Piggly Wiggly encountering profit-taking.

Reiter Foster was a feature of the irregular oil group, encountering heavy liquidation in the early trading, then rallying somewhat on announcement of the bringing in of a 4,000-barrel well in the Seminole field. Vacuum made a good gain, while the Standards generally were heavy.

Utilities were irregular, United Light and Power "A" yielding to selling pressure after an initial gain.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

PRICE MOVEMENTS NARROW ON LOCAL STOCK EXCHANGE

The week opened on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange with a little more activity in evidence, but, with the exception of one or two issues, the price movements were narrow and unimportant.

Pittsburgh Coal recorded a substatial gain in response to an upward movement in the shares on the New York Exchange. Strength in Coal was noticeable at the outset, when it came into the market at 49¼ as against Saturday's close at 47. The opening was followed by a further gain of a point or so, after which the stock quieted down. Buying is attributed to general betterment in operations as reported by the company. Production is steadily mounting and prices are holding steady.

Standard Sanitary sold at a new low for the current movement in the opening dealings, changing hands at 36⅞, the first time the issue has been under 37 for several weeks. Only a little stock came out at this figure, however.

Lone Star Gas was steady at 52, with several transactions taking place at that figure, while Arkansas Gas preferred was handled at 7⅜, a slight fractional gain over the previous close.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—Material setbacks in prices for wheat resulted today from hedging and from general commission house selling. World shipments of wheat showed a big increase both over a week ago and one year back. Starting at ⅛c decline to ½c advance, wheat soon underwent a drop all around. Corn developed weakness, September especially, the market opening ⅜c off to ½c up, and later showing nearly 3c fall in some cases. Oats were easier. Provisions advanced.

At noon wheat was ⅝c to ⅞c net lower, and corn ranging from 1c decline to ¼c advance.

With world shipments of wheat showing 6,000,000 bushels increase for the week and with the amount of wheat on ocean passage 2,000,000 bushels larger, wheat traders leaned to the selling side much of the time today. Meanwhile, favorable Canadian wheat crop reports tended decidedly to curtail buying power and to stimulate belief in lower prices.

According to authoritative advices at hand today harvesting of early wheat in Canada will become general this week, and the greater part of the crop will be safe by August 15. In some places late Canadian wheat will require 30 days without frost, but this part of the crop is only a small per cent. The crop as a whole being 10 days earlier than usual. The entire Canadian crop is reported as filling perfectly.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that produced the destructive winds and excessive rains over a path in the Atlantic Coast states from Florida to New Jersey, is now off the Atlantic Coast beyond the field of observation. It gave Washington, D. C., 6.64 inches of rain in the 24 hours ending yesterday morning, and an additional 2.00 inches up to this morning. Atlantic City registered 4.10 inches in the 48 hour period. The second storm passed over the southern tip of Florida during last night. It is now in the Gulf of Mexico.

High pressure covers practically the entire eastern portion of the country this morning, attended by mostly clear skies and cool weather. Low pressure covers the northern plains and the northern Rocky Mountain states, with little cloudiness and no rains.

River Conditions.

The upper rivers are stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.0 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.4, and Dam No. 6, 8.2 feet. The dams are up.

It's the talk of the town—the 4 Page Color Comic Section published every week day as a big part of the Evening Sun-Telegraph.

Early Automatic Control Of Traffic Is Good News

It is stated that plans for the automatic traffic control system to be installed at a cost of $125,000 have progressed so well that it will be in operation in the downtown district in November. This is cheering news because it is expected that traffic movement will be greatly accelerated, permitting vehicles to go five to eight blocks without stopping.

Pittsburgh's peculiar arrangement of streets in the Triangle has always been a great obstacle to speedy traffic movement under manual control and much improvement is expected under the new plan. It surely cannot be worse than the system now prevailing and which constantly gives evidence of its inefficiency as the stream of motor vehicles becomes more dense.

It is announced that 40 traffic men will be released for other police duty when the new method is installed. That alone would be an accomplishment even if no improvement in vehicle movement results, and there is every reason to expect betterment.

No Brains—These Needed

WITH Brains They Are Not Necessary.

MASKED DANCERS OF TIBET

MORE MASKED DANCERS AND ONE OF THE LLAMAS THAT FOOL SUPERSTITIOUS PEOPLE

These two pictures, taken by the Roerich Expedition to Tibet, illustrate interestingly that, if you have truth and intelligence on your side, SIMPLICITY IS ALL SUFFICIENT.

But where you have no brains, no truth, nothing but superstition, you need the fanciest, most impressive contraptions to carry conviction to the superstitious mind.

The two pictures in this column show masked dancers of Tibet, active in the religious mysteries of one of the Buddhist monasteries, impressing the people and persuading them to contribute more liberally to the Llamas, Buddhist priests.

The lower picture shows you one of these Llamas with a dancer held by each hand. This miserably superstitious and credulous congregation believes, of course, that he is on friendly terms with devils. No wonder they support him in idleness.

You will notice that some of the dancers are full grown, and some children. Death's heads and skulls, horns and horrible grimaces are conspicuous.

Mr. Roerich, head of the expedition, for whom an important museum in New York is named, was amazed at the degradation and superstition of modern Buddhism in Tibet.

He found that Buddhist priests told fortunes, using legs of mutton in the process, driving away devils with shotguns. Human corpses cut in pieces, were thrown into the field to be eaten by pigs and wild fowl. He tells of human beings rushing into the fields, rolling over the dismembered human bodies to "acquire luck."

When Gantama, the young Indian prince, left his beautiful wife, his new-born child and all his dancing girls, and went out to establish the Buddhist religion, he had the best of motives.

But religion easily degenerates into superstition. And this proves it.

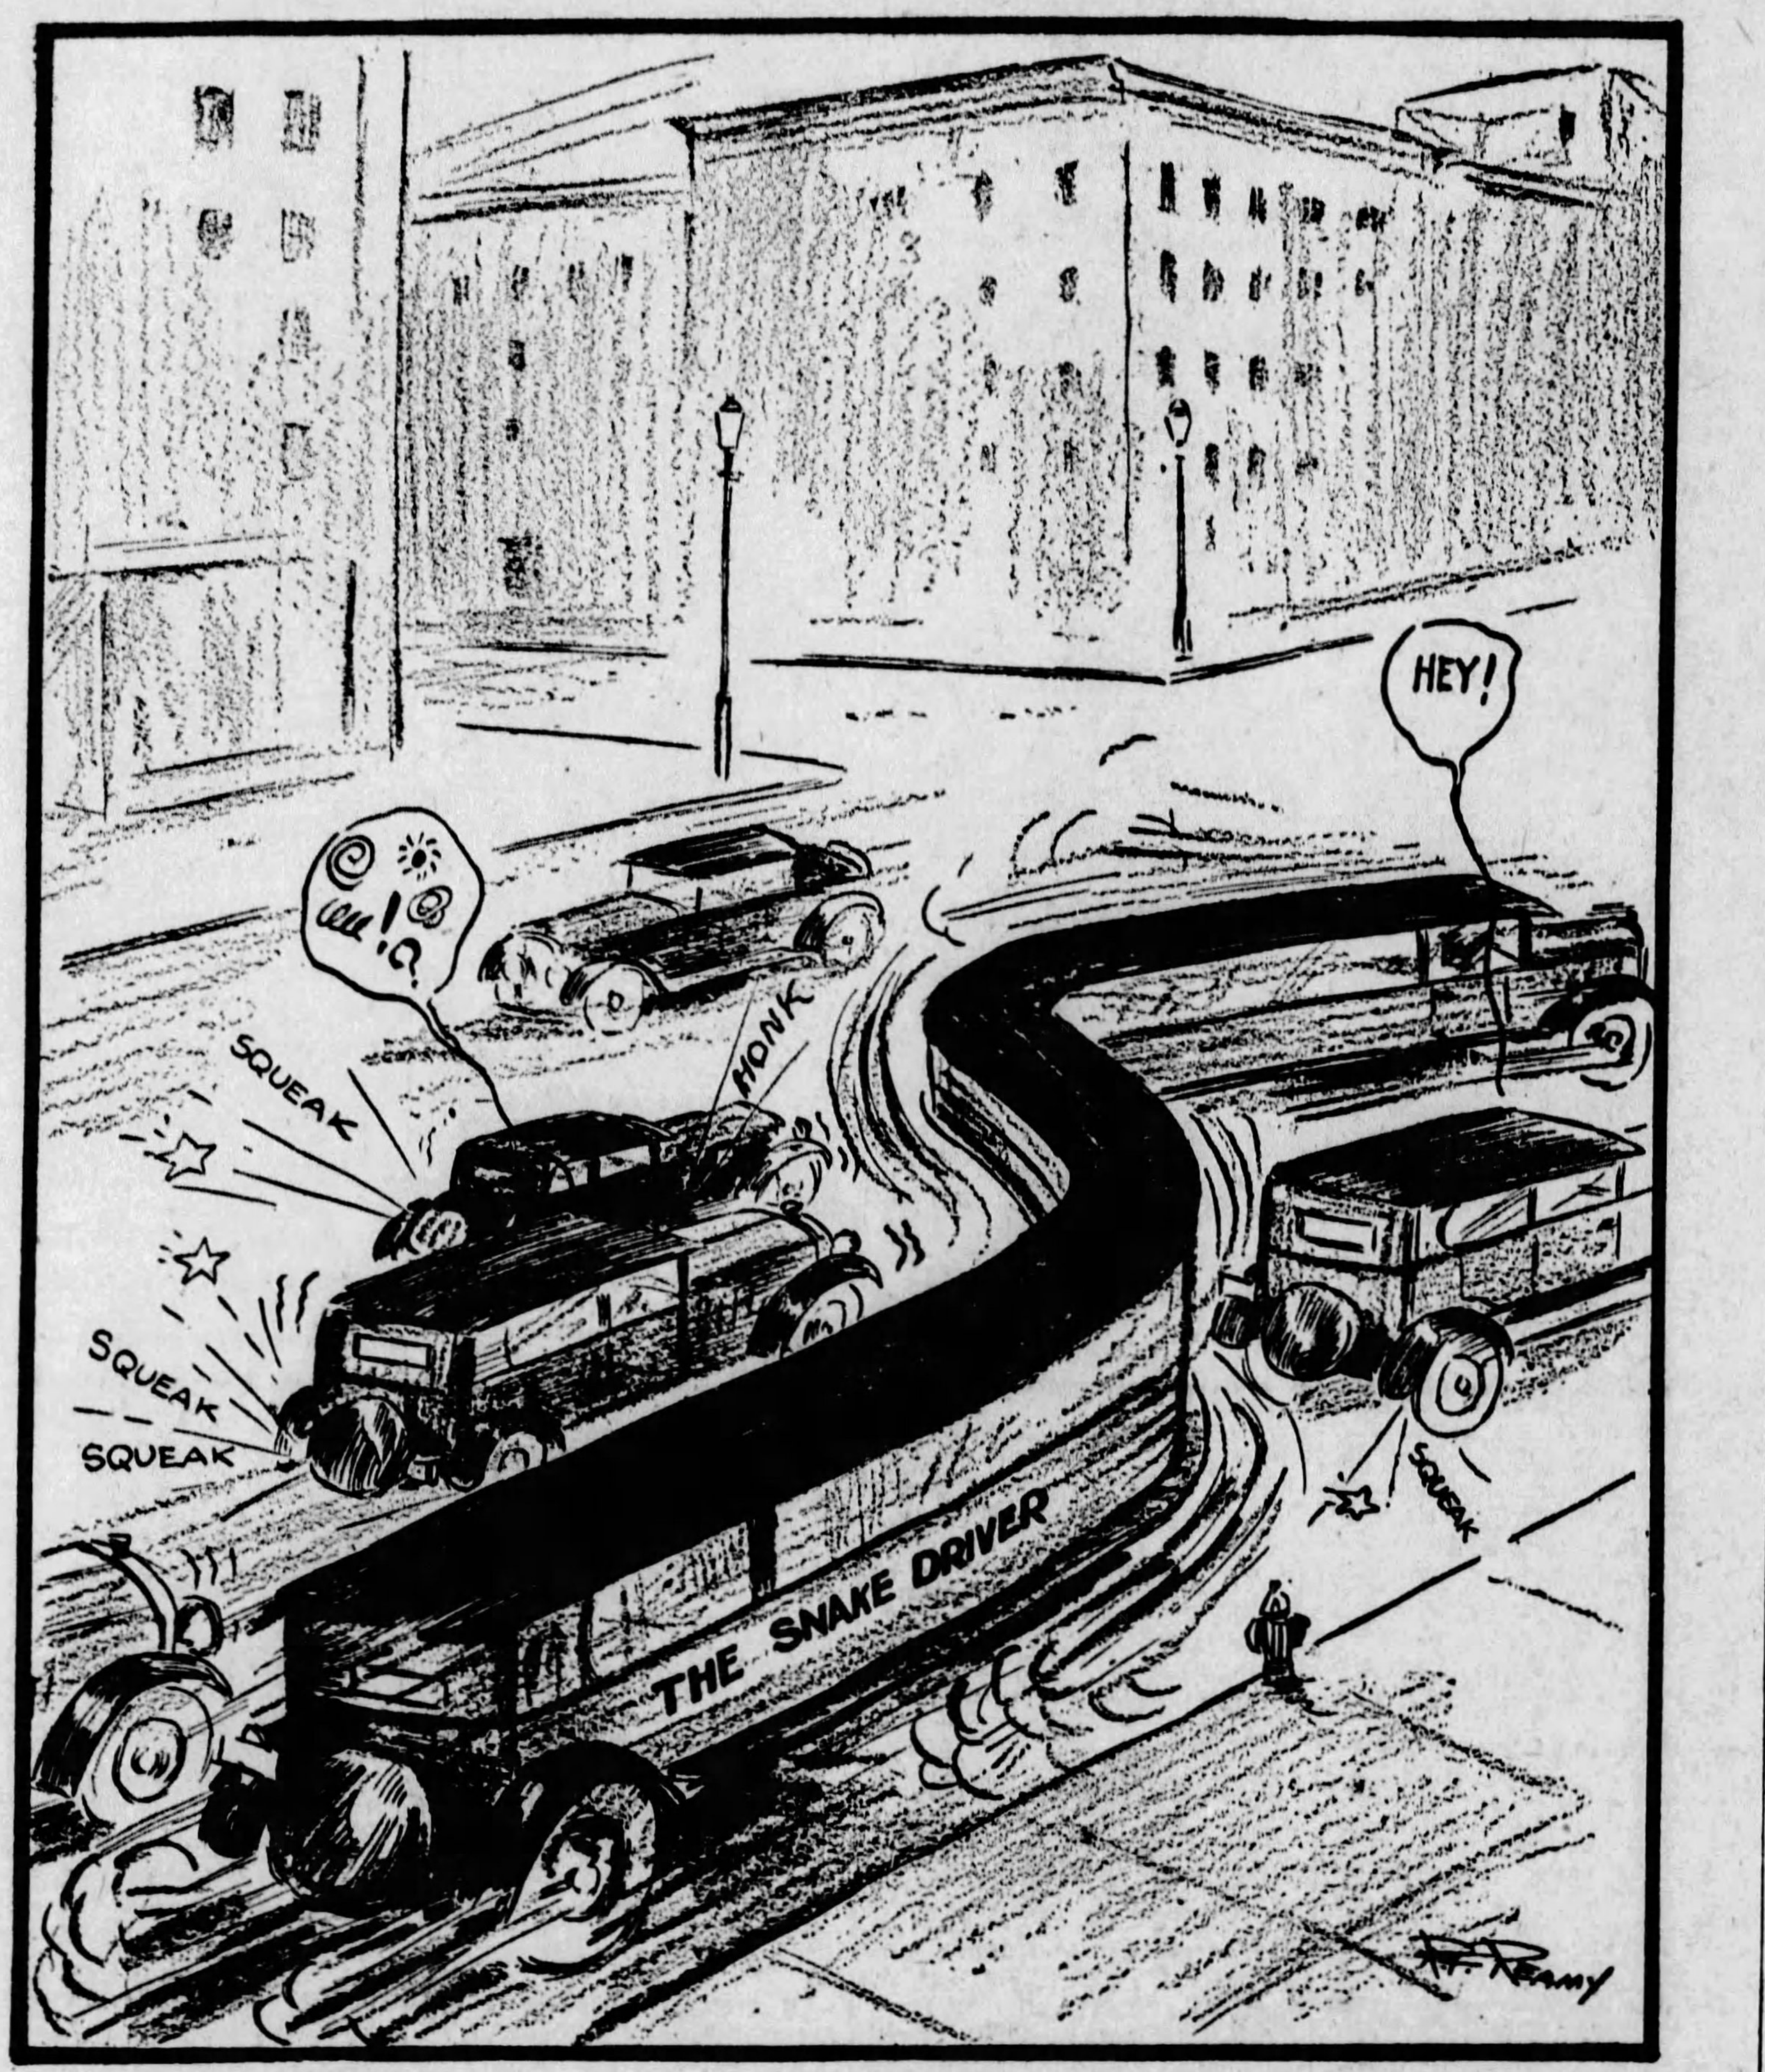
THE MENACE

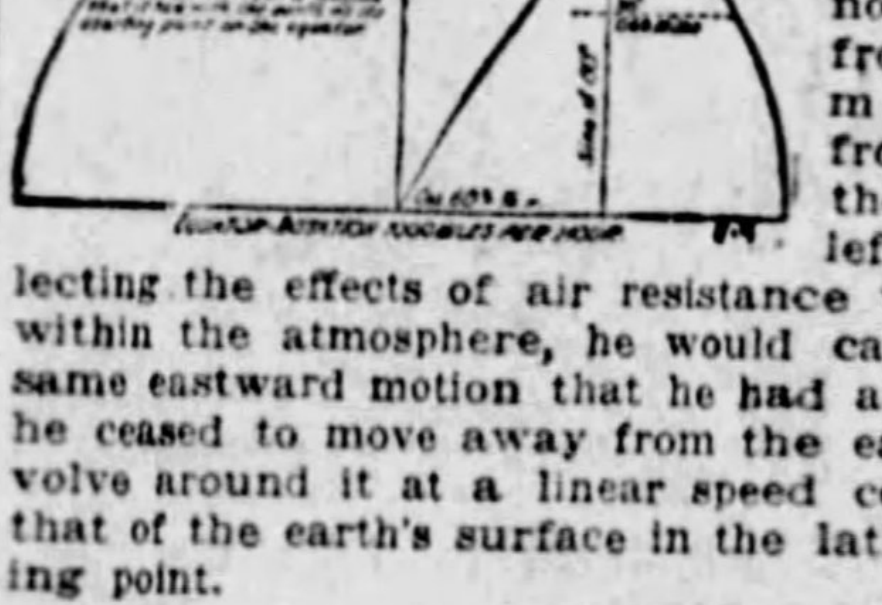


Garrett P. Serviss Says:

The Rotating Earth.

I OFTEN receive letters from persons who think that an aviator, by going to a great elevation and coming to rest there would be enabled to see one-half the earth's surface roll under him in twelve hours, and if he waited twenty-four hours would find himself again exactly over the place from which he started.

This is true enough, if he could remain at a fixed point in space with reference to the rotating earth. This he could not do unless he drove his plane westward at the same rate that the globe rotated eastward beneath him. But if he could stay motionless the atmosphere, rotating with the globe, would then roar past him at a speed of many hundred miles per hour—1,000 miles at the equator, 500 miles in latitude 60 degrees.



Even if he rose the limits of the atmosphere into empty space, he could not free himself from the inertia of motion acquired from the rotation of the earth before he left its surface. Neglecting the effects of air resistance while he was still within the atmosphere, he would carry with him the same eastward motion that he had at the start, and if he ceased to move away from the earth he would revolve around it at a linear speed corresponding with that of the earth's surface in the latitude of his starting point.

Some curious conclusions may be derived from considering the effects of this inertial motion. For instance, let the aviator start from a point on the equator and direct his course straight northward. As I have shown in former articles dealing with the deviation of moving bodies as a consequence of the earth's rotation, the airplane would drift off eastward over the earth's surface as it progressed northward. But, free it from all friction or other atmospheric interference, and the full force of its eastward inertial motion would be retained by the plane, so that when it arrived at latitude 60 degrees north its eastward motion would be double that of the earth's surface directly beneath it, and so it would in effect travel around the earth without effort, passing through the whole 360 degrees of longtitude in twenty-four hours. But the circumference of the earth at 60 degrees latitude is only one-half as much as around the equator.

The underlying principle is precisely the same as that which enables a ship to shorten the trans-Atlantic passage by taking a northerly course, where the number of miles in a degree of longtitude is less than on more southerly parallels.

It is not unprofitable to study the little diagram here presented where the northern hemisphere of the earth is shown in a section cut perpendicular to the equator. For geometrical reasons the radius of the globe, and consequently its circumference along any parellel between its poles and its equator, varies with the cosine of the latitude of the parallel chosen. Thus, we find that the length of the cosine of 60 degrees latitude equals half the equatorial radius of the earth, from which it follows that the distance around the earth in 60 degrees latitude (either north or south) is half as great as around the equator. In the latitude of 40 degrees the earth's girth is a little more than three-fourths as great as at the equator.

"Capitalism"

THE gifts of the Rockefellers, father and son, to public purposes, discussion of the former's recent eighty-ninth birthday revealed, now approximate $550,000,000.

The sum is beyond human comprehension. It would take 37,000 men, at $5 a day, working a year, with the usual time off Sundays, holidays and sickness, to earn it.

These gifts have done incalculable good, much of which might not have been done had not large profits permitted the donors to start great benefactions.

Although every social philosopher has theorized upon the problem, nobody has yet found a workable better way to inspire creative activity than to reward it richly, as the so-called capitalist system does.

Temper it with intelligence and that system not only makes rich men who use their riches for the public's benefit, but it also widens the door of opportunity for everybody.

Once Overs

Beware the Paternal Friend

THE old fellow who wants to be a father to the girl who is away from home should be watched.

His motive is not usually what it appears to be.

He is not so unselfish in his desires and ambitions as he pretends.

Of course, there are elderly men who are sincere in their desires to be helpful to young girls who need advice and comradeship, but this is not often the case.

When an elderly man asks a girl to confide in him to the extent of telling him about her private affairs he is asking more than he should and more than she should grant.

The really earnest and honorable man does not seek to have any girl tell him more than she desires to confide.

There are many elderly men who seek the company of young girls.

It pleases their vanity to be seen with an attractive young woman.

In many cases this is the reason for the interest which so many old men display in girls young enough to be their grandaughters.

One girl says, "I fear old men more than I do young men."

This girl has good sense or she has learned a lesson by personal experience.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Texas Plains

OUT where the prairie slopes away,
Where the blooms of the cactus glow bold and gay,
Where the dust lies gray on the low mesquite
And the sky-line reels through the waves of heat,
Out on the plains by the shallow streams
There is room for riding and time for dreams.

Though the ranks of the cities press on amain,
A spell of peace rings the costal plain;
Here on the prairie Earth still seems new,
The air is golden, the sky is blue,
And here, where a man may ride at will,
The heart still sings and the pulses thrill.

Little enough have the false gods left,
And many men go through the world bereft
Of a light, star-white, that might once have gleamed
On their paths, from the dreams that they could have dreamed;
But truth dwells here where the winds are sweet,
And the dust lies gray on the sparse mesquite.

Isn't It So?

The bigamist isn't satisfied with looking for trouble. He looks for it twice.

Great Passages from the Bible

The Parable of the Sower

(Luke 8; 4-15)

AND when much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of every city, he spake by a parable:

A sower went out to sow his seed: and as he sowed, some fell by the way side; and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it.

And some fell upon a rock; and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moisture.

And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it.

And other fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit an hundredfold. And when he had said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

And his disciples asked him, saying, What might this parable be?

And he said, Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God: but to others in parables; that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand.

Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God.

Those by the way side are they that hear; then cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe and be saved.

They on the rock are they, which, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, which for a while believe, and in time of temptation fall away.

And that which fell among thorns are they, which when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares and riches and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection.

But that on the good ground are they, which in an honest and good heart, having heard the word, keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

IF we didn't have any telephone we'd be a lot worse off, I reckon. But since we've got them, we'd just as well make jokes out of the tragedies that happen sometimes. People always joke about the saddest and solemnest things, and so there is a lot of wise-cracking about telephoning.

There was some young guys at a table in a restaurant, and they were pretty gay. One of them was trying to make a pretty girl at the next table notice him. Finally he excused himself and went over to her.

"Pardon me," he says to the girl, "but what exchange do you work at?"

"How did you know I was a telephone operator?" she comes back.

"Why, that easy. I been signaling you for a half hour and got no answer."

Positively No Sharks

A TRAVELER in the tropics one day came to a charming little creek. The heat was appalling, so he went up to a man who was near the water and said: "Is it safe here? Are there any sharks here?"

"None, I assure you."

The tourist undressed and went into the water. Then suddenly he was afraid again and turning towards the inhabitant he said:

"There are really no sharks?"

The other shook his head impatiently. "No, there are no sharks. The crocodiles have driven them all away."

The Wrong Notes

A SIDEWALK crowd may be harmless, but it doesn't look well in front of a Wall Street bank. So the policeman hurried over to break it up. A boy sat on the bank steps, strumming a ukulele and singing. He was good, too.

"Who are you?" asked the officer.

"Messenger boy."

"Carry things around, huh. Well, you better take those notes some place else. You ain't allowed to carry a tune on this street."

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up and to the Warwick to see Ted Cook, the California humorist, who explained he brought his wife with him because he thought it would look better. And to talk of this and that, especially Los Angeles climate.

Worked awhile and to see Dr. Guy Campbell, the dentist, and drove him to his home at Dobbs Ferry and surprised to see what few changes in the Hudson Valley in the past few years and later drove on to Sleepy Hollow, a well named and somnolently peaceful section.

In the evening to Emil Fuchs studio with others and met Janet Gaynor, the cinema player. Home where I found a strange white dog had strayed into my apartment and was sound asleep side by side with my dog. So to bed with both of them.

No street in Manhattan bubbles with activity like Delancey—the East Side's Broadway. Everybody is a merchant, even to small boys who circulate among the motorists with trays of home-made candy. In the patch of park in the center the old folks seek a little comfort.

The benches are filled with old bearded men and wigged women who have a dull wonderment for the new world in faded eyes. In the street is the Libby, the largest Jewish hotel in the world, which features the novelty of a Turkish bath cabaret at night.

Sidewalks are honeycombed with little portable stands, many of which sell a famous East Side delicacy—parboiled salted watermelon seeds. Celery beer is the favorite tipple. There are kosher cafes where patrons who stand up at wall counters are served one-third cheaper.

Among the picturesque street musicians at the subway kiosks are a blind accordian player and a gypsy violinist with rings in his ears. Tired housewives trudge along with capacious market baskets. All wives of merchants work in the shops and children frolic about every doorway.

The financial soundness of this slice of the Ghetto is displayed by many banks. Under the lower end of the Delancey street bridge is the famous push cart market, a rabble from daylight until dusk, where every imaginable household article may be purchased.

Around Rivington and Chrystie street, the shops and sidewalk stands sell single cigarets—or any number desired less than a package. This is a concession to slim purses of newsies, bootblacks and errand boys.

Streets of the Ghetto are the children's playground. They make no effort to avoid traffic dangers and the burden of responsibility is upon trespassing drivers. And woe betide the luckless driver who goes through the narrow streets carelessly. He finds himself the target for a shower of sticks, stones and over-ripe vegetables.

Allen street, which is a hive of brass pounders and their wares, has a basement coffee shop that serves a long horrible smelling Turkish cigaret with each cup of coffee.

A Broadway variant for asking a friend to "tear a herring" is to invite him to "shuck a tamale."

At a Fifth avenue wedding which is said to have cost a certain pere $85,000, the butlers receiving guests wore knickerbockers, powdered wigs and slippers, with rhinestone heels. I'll never feel affluent until I have a butler with sidewheel whiskers and rhinestone heels. Come children to the pantry and watch Parkins' heels glitter!

And a carriage starter at a new hotel wears patent leather boots up to his knees, a purple velvet sport shirt and a Napoleonic hat of gold cloth. If it isn't one thing it is something else.

Queer People

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

Usually you get along better when you conform.

No matter how radical your ideas it is less trouble for the most part to act as other people do.

Nobody wants carved on his tombstone the epitaph, "Here lies a man who dared to go to the Grand Opera in his shirt sleeves."

There are times, however, when we must assert our individuality. This is true particularly in our intellectual and moral life. Whoever will not dare to do right and to adhere to what he believes the truth, no matter what other people think or do, is not much of a man.

I have always had a liking for queer people.

You can never tell what they are going to do. They may soar or flop, sprout wings or horns, write a masterpiece or go crazy.

If statistics could be gathered, I suppose they would show that nine out of ten queer people are queer and nothing more.

But you never know when you have hold of a world beater, so when you see those whom their neighbors think queer, you always have an element of the uncertain.

It is like watching for a firecracker to go off. Many are fizzes, but once in a while there is a real explosion.

Washington, D. C., never knew how to take Lincoln until after he died. He was always considered a little absurd to the last.

Then there was the poet Wordsworth, whose country neighbors thought he acted so strangely as he walked abroad composing his poems that they had the government send down detectives to watch him. It was thought he might be a spy for the French Revolutionists.

And good old Samuel Johnson, who touched every post as he went down the street, who always desired to come out of a door with the same foot forward and who would go back up the steps to come out again if he missed the first time. As queer a fish as ever lived. But the great man of his time in English literature.

Socrates was ridiculed and laughed at for his odd ways by the wits of Athens; Joan of Arc her neighbors held a little cracked when she told them of the voices; Saint Francis of Assisi was not taken seriously when he talked of "his little sisters, the larks."

Edison was a queer young man, getting fired for rigging up a device for electrocuting cockroaches and thus bringing undesirable publicity to his office, and for similar outlandish pranks; the noted electrician, Steinmetz, was a singular little man who wanted to live in a house without a square inch of lawn.

The list is long. You never know when the person you think queer may prove to be a genius.

Jean Jacques Rousseau said of himself: "I don't know whether I am better than my fellows, but I know I am different."

Those who can truthfully say that of themselves bear watching, for it is such different people that usually do things. The queer people are the ones who make history for the ordinary ones.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

TWO New York women in a smart Fifty-fifth street cafe, with two men in evening clothes.

The party starts off gently and no attention is attracted to the group. Then some after dinner coffee cups arrive, at the beginning of dinner. Then some more coffee cups, and then something in tall glasses, and then the party gets very loose in the joints. Conversation is noisy and the two women, both of them ugly ducklings, with superior airs, make themselves ridiculous by their remarks.

Both women smoke incessantly, and lean over the table as if about to embrace their escorts.

The mothers of the world!

A hole in the wall in Greenwich Village. Meaning a cafe. Smoke thick, and little tables against the benches that lined the walls. Couples sitting close in the bad light and bad air talking—talking—talking!

A woman with a green hat and rather severe clothes, sat smoking cigars. Small ones, but cigars. She talked incessantly, and the man with her listened. Occassionally he says "yes" or "no." As fast as she finished one cigar she lit another.

The mothers of the race!

A woman of 40, with her young daughter, at one of the most risque shows I've seen this year. Mother and daughter giggling over the questionable behavior of the actors.

Two women with children put nurses in charge each afternoon while they have afternoon tea parties at a cafe where mysterious after dinner coffee cups appear every little while. Then they go home and speak to the children before dinner, kiss them good night, and start out for other speakeasies in the evening. Fashionable ones where grand dinners are served at a terrible price.

And the "price" is only half in money.

I sometimes wonder if Margaret Sanger didn't know a lot of folks like this when the birth control idea took such strong hold of her.

The high school girls who crowd into theaters where questionable shows hold forth, certainly are in need of mothers to guide them. The trouble is the mothers haven't anybody to guide them, and they are the ones who need it. The grandmothers won't do, for they haven't anyone to tell them to be good. The problem threatens to remain unsettled for some time to come.

The streets are full of women with no stockings on. Maybe they think because they have, for so long, worn flesh colored stockings, none will know the difference. But if they hear what the men are saying, the chances are they will be buying stockings again before long.
